UN SHOWDOWN BETWEEN U.S., RUSSIA NEARS

Fiery Debate Ends with Assembly Forced To Line Up with One or Other.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 8—A fiery windup of general debate over the explosive Balkans issue brought the United Nations assembly's political committee nearer today to a showdown choice between the United States and Soviet Russia.

After one of the most tumultuous debates in United Nations' history, the 57-nation group turned to consideration of a batch of resolutions with chances apparently gone for a compromise of the clash between Russia and the western powers.

2 Basic Decisions

The immediate issue boiled down to a decision between two basic proposals for dealing with the quarrel between American-supported Greece and her Soviet-backed Balkan neighbors:

▶The American resolution charging Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia with aggression and calling for a new border-watch to take the place of the defunct Balkans investigating commission set up by the security council.

▶Russia's demand foreign troops be withdrawn from Greece and a UN commission be set up to make sure any economic aid is "solely in the interests of the Greek people."

Some delegates thought the decision might be reached before the weekend, but the Balkans dispute promised to continue through most of the remainder of the assembly session. The assembly itself must make the final decision by a two-thirds vote after the committee has acted.

Shouted criticism of the former Balkan commission's report by Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate, turned the debate yesterday into a tense session which appeared heading toward actual blows.

Defies President

Called to order by Chairman Joseph Bech (Luxembourg) for his charge the British had assassinate," Bebler retorted: "I'll minister named Zevgos, and told he could not use the word "assassinate," Bebler retorted: "I'll use it without your permission."

Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium got the floor and declared "if the force of the orator can be judged by the insults he makes, then he has reached the summit of eloquence." Bebler was called down also by Britain's Hector McNeil, who said the Yugoslav would recover from his "hysteria" and doubtless apologize.

Sweden eased the tension with a resolution to set up a new commission to tackle the Balkans difficulty and thereby defer the whole issue. An American spokesman indicated the United States delegation deemed this no solution.

MISSING MAN FOUND IN LAKE AT DELAWARE

Coroner Rules Drowning in Death of John Camp, 89.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 8—An 89-year-old Delaware man, object of an intensive search by the Delaware sheriff's office since his disappearance Monday morning, was found drowned in Eckles lake just southeast of Delaware at 3 p. m. yesterday.

The victim, John Camp, was reported missing at noon Monday and was not found until Sheriff Earl Fravel and a group of high school boys discovered his body in the quarry lake about a half mile from town.

Sheriff's Deputies Giltner, Jacobus, and Jones, tracing the aged 96-pound man's movements after a search Monday night and Tuesday morning had failed to locate him, discovered that he had been seen in a field near the quarry at 11:30 a. m. Monday, and a search in the area was begun Tuesday noon.

Delaware Coroner, Dr. Wray Davies, returned a verdict of suicide by drowning, and estimated that he had been in the water since about noon Monday.

Mr. Camp had lived in Delaware for 31 years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Iris Keller of Kirkersville, and Mrs. Fae Sites of Millersport, three sons, Raymond and Howard of Delaware, and Ivan of Columbus, 10 grandchildren, and 20 greatgrandchildren. Three brothers also survive him, Edward of Newark, Henry of Basil, and Charles of Millersport.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at the Ramsey-Mohr funeral home in Delaware and burial will be made in the Millersport cemetery.

Byrnes' Story of War and Peace Parleys To Be Published in Star

The Star has obtained newspaper rights to one of the most important documents in the history of diplomacy—the inside story of the war and post-war conferences as revealed by James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state.

Mr. Byrnes' dramatic, first-hand account, which he has entitled "Speaking Frankly," will start a week from today, Wednesday, Oct. 15.

In book form, the volume will bear the imprint of Harper & Brothers.

The six most significant chapters will be carried by The Star and other leading newspapers throughout the world in a series of installments—each containing hitherto undisclosed details of international negotiations.

Mr. Byrnes writes from the vantage point of the only ranking American who attended all the conferences from Yalta, in February, 1945, through the New York meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers last December.

JAMES F. BYRNES

Kept Own Shorthand Notes

He writes, too, from the copious notes penned on the spot with the shorthand he learned when a child and polished while a court reporter.

The story of the chief architect of America's role in the making of the peace begins with Yalta, where he sat with President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Prime Minister Stalin in his capacity as "assistant president" and director of war mobilization.

It records the days when he stepped in as secretary of state at the request of President Truman and continues through until his resignation in January.

Mr. Byrnes is releasing his story to the widest possible audience in the belief that it will aid the people of America and the world in arriving at sound conclusions about the most momentous question of all—can peace be made to endure?

Will Provide Scholarship Fund

Proceeds that accrue will be transferred to the James F. Byrnes Foundation—a charitable organization to be set up to carry out a long-held desire of his. Its chief purpose will be to provide scholarships for children left fatherless at an early age. This provision stems from the memory of the struggle his mother had to support him and his sister when their father died two weeks before Mr. Byrnes was born.

Mr. Byrnes intends to "speak frankly" about Soviet Russia, of course.

Though the Russians variously irritated, baffled, amazed or amused him, his attitude toward them is one of reasonableness and, on the whole, friendly.

For Stalin, as his account will show, he seems to have a definite personal liking.

Takes Realistic View

But he is always completely realistic about all the Russians with whom his story deals.

His attitude toward President Roosevelt is one of great admiration and personal affection, but he does not blink at or conceal facts that might be considered adverse.

Because of his desire to have his story of America's role in the world read as widely as possible and completely understood, he is putting it into straightforward language conveying intimate, inside information and revelations in the political sense and in the personal sense.

As a lifelong and highly successful political leader, Mr. Byrnes knows the value of homely human-interest details and of personal sidelights on famous people and great events.

He often quotes directly from notes he made on the spot, and these notes are amazing for their frankness and directness, and for the feeling they convey to the reader that he was there, too, and heard what was said and what happened, how people looked and how they reacted.

Mr. Byrnes became secretary of state in July, 1945. He had served as a member of the United States House of Representatives from 1911 to 1925, as United States senator from 1931 to 1941, as an associate justice of the supreme court from 1941 to 1942. In that year he stepped down from the bench at President Roosevelt's request to direct the office of economic stabilization and in 1943 he was named director of war mobilization, a post which he held until he was appointed to head the department of state. With his appointment as secretary of state he became one of the few men in American history who have held top positions in all three branches of the government—executive, legislative and judicial.

SCIOTO WORK TO GO SLOWLY

Ordnance Property Not Expected To Be Used as School Till Summer.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8—The slow transfer to the state of 1,243 acres and 24 buildings of the Scioto ordnance plant at Marion indicated today that the property will not be in use as a welfare institution until at least next summer.

Former State Welfare Director Frazier Reams started negotiations on the project as an adjunct to the Boys Industrial school as early as Nov. 1, 1945 but the paper work on the transaction is still in the bureaucratic mill.

"We can't put the pressure on the federal government to speed up the transaction because we're the beneficiaries in the deal," State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood commented.

The state presently is awaiting an answer from the federal land bank at Louisville, Ky., which is handling the negotiations for the war assets administrations, on whether a recent ruling by the attorney general gave Sherwood authority to accept the transfer.

The attorney General's ruling was sent to the bank by the director Aug. 30.

"Even if we heard from the bank today," Sherwood said, "it still would be at least six months before we could house a boy at Scioto."

Sherwood said that if the bank accepts his authority to accept the treansfer the next move would be a request to the state emergency board for approximately $400,000 for remodeling at Marion.

One of the specifications made by the WAA is that the state operate its proposed institutions at Scioto as an educational institution for juvenile delinquents.

NEWARK POLICEMEN STAND SLAYING TRIAL

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., Oct. 8—The manslaughter trial of two city policemen entered its second day today after opening testimony accused the two officers of striking a prisoner arrested at a church social.

Miss Mae Good of Newark testified that while Patrolmen Carl Koblens and Bryan Woolard were escorting Frank Merryman to jail last April 8, Woolard struck Merryman and she could hear the blow from across the street.

Merryman died of injuries shortly after his arrest and the two patrolmen were charged with manslaughter.

Mrs. Imogene Merryman, the widow, testified that "when my husband balked at the (jail) door, I saw them beat him unmercifully."

The officers, who waived jury trial, are being tried by a three-judge court including Judges Clifford Belt of Belmont county; Lloyd C. Leech, Coshocton, and U. S. McGonagle, Perry county.

Negotiations on Rail Working Rules Open

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—Representatives of five railroad operating brotherhoods and spokesmen for the carriers resumed negotiations today on the union's demand for changes in working rules.

The negotiations began yesterday, but aside from decisions on procedure, no conclusions were reached.

The brotherhoods, representing 350,000 engineers, firemen, switchmen, trainmen and conductors, have proposed 44 changes in working rules.

ROBOT PLANE STARTS TRIP TO OHIO BASE

Pilotless Craft Heads for Wilmington After Ocean Crossing.

By The Associated Press

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld., Oct. 8—The mechanically-guided U. S. Army Skymaster Robert E. Lee took off at 7:32 a. m. today for Wilmington, O., after a successful robot flight yesterday across the Atlantic.

The plane carried an air force crew of 10, commanded by Col. James M. Gillespie of San Antonio, Tex.

No one touched controls of the big C-54 until the aircraft came to Harmon field for the landing. Then Gillespie took over. He explained that automatic landing facilities were not available here. It was the first time the "mechanical brain" had been interrupted in the round trip over the ocean.

The crewmen said they intended to allow the plane to fly completely by controls until it reached its midwestern base.

The Robert E. Lee completed its return crossing of the Atlantic at 3:16 p. m. yesterday. It had made the first ocean crossing on instruments alone Sept. 11.

The westbound flight was made at altitudes ranging from 7,500 to 8,000. En route to Newfoundland, the plane made contact with a United States "marker" ship stationed in mid-Atlantic to give a position check.

The four-engined aircraft had been loaded with 3,000 gallons of gasoline before leaving England. Gillespie said the takeoff from Lyneham was smooth and that he merely flicked a switch which "threw in" the robot pilot.

Robot Crew Not Told Exact Destination

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Oct. 8—The Air Force's all weather flying center at nearby Wilmington, O., awaited the return from England today of its push button plane as officials disclosed the eastward trip was made with the pilots ignorant of their exact destination.

Discussing the automatic C-54 Skymaster for writers gathered to witness completion of the first round trip flight of its kind in aviation history, Col. J. Francis Taylor, deputy commander of the center, said the airfield at which the plane was to land in England was withheld from the two pilots as one means of demonstrating the fully mechanical operation to British observers.

The plane took off from Stephenville, N. F., and flew to Brize

PIQUA, LIMA MEN WIN 4TH PRIMARY

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Oct. 8—William C. McCulloch, Piqua Republican, and Joseph C. Quatman of Lima, a Democrat, will seek the Fourth district congressional seat in the Nov. 4 election on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's special primary election.

A former speaker in the state house of representatives, McCulloch defeated G. Dewey Fetter, Allen county Republican chairman, 10,120 to 4,159.

Quatman paced three opponents with 2,923. The district's six counties gave State Rep. Roy E. Harmony of Sidney, 2,879, Mayor Reuben Dickman of New Bremen, 1,918 and Paul C. Christie of Delphos, 861.

The nominees will compete for the congressional seat vacated by Rep. Robert F. Jones, Lima Republican, who resigned Sept. 2 upon his appointment to the federal communications commission by President Truman.

Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins had ruled special registrations requested for the primary could not be conducted. This was overruled by the appellate court. The registrations, however, fell short of expectations.

Counties in the Fourth district are Allen, Auglaize, Darke, Mercer, Miami and Shelby. The district has been Republican for several years and has had a G.O.P. congressman since 1938.

Hit-Skip Kills Kenton Girl, 9

Police Without Definite Clues as Search for Driver Is Pressed.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 8—Judy Chamberlain, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Chamberlain of Kenton was killed shortly before 1 p. m. Tuesday when she was struck by a hit-and-run automobile while enroute to school.

Police who have issued a statewide alarm for the driver are up against a stone wall today in the investigation of the accident, according to Police Chief Clarence Sheldon.

A truck driver near the scene of the accident reported what he thought to be the number of the license on the hit-skip car to police. A short time later Bellefontaine police detained a woman driving a car that answered the description of the one that hit Judy.

It was a case of mistaken identity however, Kenton police said. Two other combinations of the reported license number have been checked and respective car owners found not to be involved. One license number check took investigators to Marion. All were fruitless however and police have concluded the truckdriver must have been mistaken in his numerals.

Judy was hit while crossing the intersection of Fountain and Railroad streets, a short distance from her home at 336 West Railroad street. She was dead upon arrival at McKitrick hospital.

In addition to the truck driver a second witness saw the accident. She is Mrs. Lloyd Morrison. She accompanied police to Bellefontaine yesterday and exonerated the woman driver held there.

Besides her father and mother Judy leaves four sisters, Mrs. Leonard Shew of Toledo; Mrs. William Blankenship of La Rue, Mrs. Wilbert Goodman of Canton and Elinor Louise at home; and three brothers, Norval Guy, Curtis Leo and Burl Patrick all of Kenton.

Funeral services will be held at the Sthindewolf Funeral home at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. Edward Jones of Epworth Methodist church will officiate with burial in Rushsylvania cemetery.

Galion Thief Halts Chase by Snatching Victim's Trousers

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 8—While Galion police are investigating two burglaries which occurred here early Tuesday morning, Police Chief James L. Walker has issued a warning to all citizens to keep their doors locked.

At the L. J. McDonald home at 346 South Market street someone entered the downstairs bedroom through an unlocked rear door and escaped with McDonald's shirt and slacks which contained a billfold and approximately $50. McDonald said that he was awakened by a flashlight and when he discovered the intruder he chased him but was unable to proceed far because of his scanty attire. Police were notified about 2 a. m. and about 25 minutes later they received a report from the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lindsay of 409 South Boston street that a prowler had entered their bedroom and escaped with a $5 bill after ransacking Mrs. Lindsay's purse. The intruder at the Lindsay home cut a small slot in the screen door and lifted the hook in order to gain entrance to the home. The door was apparently unlocked.

GIRL BELIEVED FIRE SETTER

Mentally Retarded 13-Year-Old Thought Responsible for Church Blaze.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8 — A strange story, going into recesses of a child's mind but still not answering all questions, was disclosed today by state fire officials as they wound up months of investigation into the destruction of the St. Peter' Roman Catholic church in Chillicothe in a $350,000 fire last June 19.

State fire marshal Ray C. Gill said a 13-year-old girl, whom he described as retarded because of an injury at birth, was believed to have been responsible for the blaze which destroyed priceless furnishings and imported stained glass windows along with the historic church.

"Many things indicate that this girl was responsible but we don't think she is a pyromaniac," Gill said. "She admitted being in the church and lighting holy candles. She apparently was fascinated by candles. She probably lighted a couple with the long tapers and dropped one and drapes caught fire.

Denies Setting Fire

"She denies actually setting the fire, but we know she rode her bicycle around the block and then came back, discovered the fire, and rang the bell for the priest."

The girl, whose name was withheld, was under observation for 90 days at the state bureau of juvenile research and Dr. Maurice Neuberger, executive psychologist, made a detailed report and

FREAK TWISTER HITS FLORIDA TRAILER LOT

By The United Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 8—Residents of a wartime housing project and trailer camp today dug out from the wreckage left by a freak tornado that swept through a 15-block area here last night, injuring at least 13 persons.

The twister, which lasted less than 10 minutes, came without warning following a tropical storm that sent high tides pounding against beach communities to endanger seawalls for the third time in nine days.

Some 28 trailers in a north suburb trailer camp were ripped from their foundations and smashed against each other. Store fronts along four blocks were blown in as walls crumbled and interiors were ruined.

In the wartime civilian housing project, consisting of houses with brick bases and frame uppers, roofs and frame tops were blown off as the brick portions remained standing.

No one was reported seriously injured, but one hospital said it had treated and dismissed 10 persons and admitted one woman, while another listed three persons as having received treatment. Police said a number of others were given first aid.

It was the third freak tornado to hit Florida towns in less than a month after tropical storms.

Distillers Asked To Close Down

Food Committee Requests 60-Day Holiday in Effort To Save Grain.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The Citizens Food committee formally requests the nation's distillers today to close down for 60 days to save 10,000,000 bushels of grain.

Industry members indicated the reply at a late afternoon conference would be a somewhat reluctant "yes."

This would be the third major step in President Truman's campaign for a voluntary saving of 100,000,000 bushels of grain to feed hungry western Europe.

Already principal grain exchanges have raised their margin, or down payment, requirement on grain deals for future delivery and the national embarked yesterday on a program of self-denial of meat, poultry and eggs.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens Food committee, arranged to meet with approximately 125 top officials of the liquor industry to discuss the proposed shutdown.

Joseph A. Engelhard, president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, declined to predict in advance what the industry response would be. He said he is not authorized to speak even for the members of the institute, which represents about 60 per cent of the nation's distilling capacity.

Another industry official said however, the distillers would probably go along after a protest to Luckman they have not been treated fairly.

This official said there is considerable resentment over the way in which the request to close down was made.

When the Distilled Spirits Institute agreed last Friday to eliminate use of wheat and cut down on corn by 50 per cent, he said, Luckman appeared to be satisfied.

But little more than 48 hours later, in a nationwide broadcast Sunday night, Luckman announced he would ask for a complete shutdown with the "full support" of Mr. Truman.

The industry official said also there is fear in some quarters the proposed shutdown may be extended into next year.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson predicted yesterday the general food conservation drive will have to be continued until the 1948 winter wheat crop starts moving next summer.

OHIOANS FALL IN LINE WITH NO-MEAT DAY

By The Associated Press

Ohioans generally fell in line with President Truman's plea to conserve meat yesterday and public eating places led the way in deleting meat from their menus.

At Cincinnati eight large hotels announced beginning next week, Tuesday menus would be "meatless."

Francis T. Martin, counsel for the Cincinnati Hotels association, said they would serve eggs and poultry on Thursdays but "only when customers insist upon such service."

Hotel managers at a meeting agreed to serve bread, rolls and butter "only to customers requesting them."

Meat was on the menu yesterday because of short notice and because spoilage was feared.

Toledo reported poultry, cheeses, eggs and spaghetti were featured substitutes for meats at most Toledo restaurants.

At Columbus Retail Grocers association announced full accord with the President's program, but a few skeptics expressed belief the campaign would result in hoarding.

Grand Jury Acts In Slaying of Roxie Green.

Ray Abraham Shappard, who confessed he killed 16-year-old Roxie Ann Green with a hammer on the night of Sept. 19 has been indicted by the Marion county grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Called back into session last Friday to hear his case, the seven women and eight men returned their findings shortly before 6 p. m. last night after being in session two days.

Attorneys Appointed

Shappard made his first appearance in common pleas court at 1:15 p. m. this afternoon when Judge Paul D. Smith named Ralph Carhart, chief counsel, and Dwight Carhart, assistant counsel, as attorneys to represent him in court.

Shappard was not arraigned on the indictment. This probably will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Appointment of the attorneys to represent Shappard was made after he informed the court he had not retained a lawyer and was not in a financial position to do so.

Shappard answered "no" to Judge Smith's questions as to whether he had an attorney, was financially able to retain one and whether he or his family could employ a lawyer. Shappard also told Judge Smith he wanted the court to appoint counsel. The Carharts are members of the law firm of Carhart, Carhart and Carhart.

In two additional cases submitted to this second session of the grand jury, no indictments were returned. They were the cases of Paul Clark charged with armed robbery and John C. Williams, charged with attempted extortion.

Robbery Attempt

Clark had been bound over to the grand jury following an alleged armed robbery and assault on Williams July 31. Williams on Sept. 28, the day after the grand jury first convened, was hailed into municipal court where he pleaded not guilty to the charge of seeking money from Clark for not testifying against the latter before the grand jury.

Although he was immediately bound over, the grand jury did not consider the charges against him although they were still in session. County Prosecutor James E. Reed said that further investigation in the case was necessary.

Clark's case, in which Williams was the state's leading witness, also was not considered by the first session of the grand jury. However, when the grand jury reconvened last Friday for the Shappard case, the county prosecutor prepared to present both cases to the grand jurors.

Examine 23 Witnesses

The grand jury examined witnesses in the Shappard case Friday completing the questioning of 23 witnesses late Friday. The jurors did not convene Saturday or Monday, the District Court of Appeals being in session here the latter day.

Meeting at 1 p. m. yesterday, the grand jurors examined witnesses in the Clark and Williams cases for more than three hours, the final witness being called in shortly after 4 p. m. Findings were submitted to Judge Paul D. Smith by Eugene Kimmel, foreman of the jury, shortly before 6 p. m.

Clark, who had until yesterday been free on bond appeared in custody of police. He was arrested at 6:10 yesterday morning and booked later in the day on charges of false registration at the Dixie Hotel in North Main street. He was represented by attorney Thomas Fetter. Counsel for Williams was Hugh Kirkwood Jr.

In Municipal court this morning Clark pleaded guilty to the false registration charges and was fined $25 and costs.

Concerning the fact that indictments were not returned on Clark or on Williams, Prosecutor James E. Reed pointed out that lack of positive identification of the former in connection with the alleged robbery and lack of conclusive evidence that Williams in the latter case had originated the attempted extortion, may have been factors in the failure of the grand jury to return indictments.

NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCTOBER 5-11

...AND EVERY *Quonset BUILDING HELPS FIGHT THE THREAT OF FIRE

* TRADE-MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Take note of the steel-framed, steel-covered Quonsets you see on farms, in industry, in commerce.

Each one stands out as a steel-clad guardian against the ravages of fire in your community.

National waste by fire in a twelve-month period, ending March 30, 1947, passed the $600,000,000 mark, for the first time in history. That is to say nothing of lost production, lost time, terror.

But Quonsets are fire-safe. Their non-inflammable Stran-Steel arch ribs, studs and joists check the spread of fire. Their steel covering will not "go up in smoke."

Meet your building needs with fire-resistant Quonsets. We have a building to meet every requirement. Call today.

Little Brown Church in Vale Has Face Lifted

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NASHUA, Ia., Oct. 8—The "Little Brown Church in the Vale," made famous by a song written before it was built, has undergone a $4,000 face-lifting.

Workmen have repaired its square brown belfry and redecorated the interior with wallpaper from an older day.

The historic small church in its pleasant rustic setting draws 30,000 to 40,000 visitors each year and has become the midwest's favorite wedding place.

Hal Boyle

"I'm inclined to think our marriages last longer and fewer end in divorce," said Rev. F. L. Hanscom, who has married more than 5,000 couples since coming to the church in 1940 as its 26th pastor.

"The people who come here are serious and don't enter matrimony lightly."

Town Dies, Church Lives On

The small neat church once served the religious need of old Bradford, a town of 600 two miles from here. The town died after it was by passed by a railroad in 1868, but a song has kept the church alive.

Attracted by the beauty of the site upon which the church was later built, William S. Pitts, a young visitor from Wisconsin wrote his moving hymn, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale" in 1857. He put his manuscript away and it was forgotten.

In 1859 the Bradford residents decided to build a church and in 1864 it was completed. Pitts, who had returned to the town as a singing teacher, was asked to sing a solo at the dedication ceremony and obliged with his own song written seven years before. It was the first time it had been sung in public and caught on quickly. A Chicago musical publishing firm spread its fame.

"Soon after its publication the church at Bradford which had been painted brown (for want of money to buy better paint, some say) became known as 'The Little Brown Church in the Vale,'" Pitts wrote later. "My hope is that it will stand for 1000 years and call the old man and his descendants to worship."

Attends Reunion

He was happy that his song and the church had become "wedded and known as one and the same" and in 1916 came here at the age of 87 from Brooklyn, N. Y., for a reunion ceremony attended also by Rev. J. K. Nutting, 84, the first pastor.

Since the turn of the century the old church, still wearing its coat of dull brown, has gradually become more popular with romantic couples—the midwest's equivalent of Manhattan's "Little Church Around the Corner."

As a newly wedded couple leave the entry, Rev. Hanscom has them pause and jointly pull the knotted rope that sets the church bell clamoring. "This is what married life is, he tells them,' a pull together."

Of the thousands of tense young marital candidates who have stood before him only two have fainted. In both cases they were the bridegrooms. He said, "We just revived them and went on with the ceremony."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Cerebral Palsy

Among all the sad things which a doctor sees, none is more pathetic than a child afflicted with cerebral spastic palsy. This is a form of paralysis and though it allows its victims to move, no movement can be directed to a predetermined end. In addition their muscles are often so badly contracted as to deform affected parts of the body.

In most instances this type of paralysis is due to some damage of the brain occurring at the time of birth.

Seven Infants

It has been estimated that seven infants with this disorder are born each year for every 100,000 population. Of these seven, one usually succumbs early in life, two have some mental disturbances, while the remaining four, though mentally normal, are physically handicapped.

Of course, the degree of injury varies to a great extent. In some cases, the paralysis may be slight, and in others the condition may be almost hopeless.

Birth is a difficult process and a number of things may happen at this time to cause brain injury to the child. Sometimes birth occurs too rapidly as it often does when the child is born before the normal time. Sometimes a long-drawn out, difficult labor will result in brain hemorrhage due to pressure.

Excessive use of drugs to relieve the pain of childbirth may affect the baby adversely. Hence one of the most important things in preventing this condition is a properly supervised labor, in which instruments are used only when absolutely necessary.

Great care should be taken to make sure that the birth does not occur too rapidly. Nature requires time to prepare the way for the child; otherwise, is head may be forced through too small an opening with resultant brain damage.

Treatment of Child

In so far as the treatment of a child with cerebral spastic paralysis is concerned, a number of measures are employed. Massage and exercises are helpful. Sometimes operations are performed to lengthen tendons and fix the feet in proper position.

In 1944, first reports were issued concerning the use of a drug known as prostigmine in the treatment of cerebral spastic paralysis. This drug has the affect of relaxing the muscles. It cannot be expected to cure the disorder, but it is helpful in relieving the symptoms. The younger the patient, the better is the response to it.

Children Talk Better

It has been noted that when this drug is used, the children are able to talk better with less spasm of the face muscle. There is improvement in the uses of the arms but there is not as great a degree of benefit in the less.

It is suggested that another drug known as atropine be given with the prostigmine in order to ward off such things as abdominal pains or breathing difficulties which the prostigmine may occasionally produce.

If, with the prostigmine, no improvement is noted within four to six weeks, its use should be discontinued.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What causes a cyst in the womb? Can it be removed in a doctor's office or is hospitalization required

Answer: The cause of cysts is not known. Operation is, as a rule, required to eliminate them. The operation, of course, will have to be carried out in a hospital.

Galion Coach Favors Grade School Athletics

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 8—The need for a program of athletics in the upper grades as well as junior and senior high schools was stressed in a talk by Coach Ed Rannow when he appeared as speaker, Monday night, at the dinner-meeting of the Galion Rotary club at Hotel Talbott.

Rannow pointed out that 50 per cent of the draftees in the last war were rejected because of physical imperfections. He said that there are competent leaders and teachers in physical education, but unfortunately, few are training for this type of work. An all-around physical education program in the schools should include besides mere calisthenics, skills such as running, jumping, climbing, throwing, tumbling, wrestling and the like, as well as the competitive sports like basketball, football, baseball, and track.

Rannow said that he is trying to establish this program in the junior and senior high schools, but that it would be started as low as the 5th and 6th grades. Youngsters, he declared, should learn the fundamental skills as well as the competitive sports.

The coach also pointed out that if a proper program was established in the grades and junior high, that it would be much more likely that cycles of good and bad teams in competitive athletics would be eliminated. There would be more consistent good teams over the years, he said. Mansfield High School teams have risen steadily in the state largely because of the coaching program in the Junior High school, it added.

LEWD ART HELD REASON FOR TAKING BAR PERMIT

Liquor Department Cracks Down on Pornographic Displays.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6—A tavern or night club is no place for a pornographic art display, the state liquor board held today after ruling racy drawings justified revocation of a liquor permit.

The board ordered a statewide campaign against obscene art displays as an aftermath of a case involving Alfonso Squila, whose permit for operation of the Ball of Fire night club, near Akron, was revoked at a hearing yesterday.

Evidence included a nude millinery story dummy and 15 or 20 pen and ink drawings of semi-nude figures allegedly displayed in the Ball of Fire.

The evidence was shown by stipulation and was not displayed in the crowded public hearing room. Commissioner Frank L. Krebs of Dayton described the exhibit as "the most flagrant of its kind we've ever had."

The Ball of Fire also was charged with sale to minors, but no evidence was offered.

Simon Leis, liquor board member ordered Floyd C. Moon, enforcement chief "to look for similar displays and if any are found, to file charges of indecent, insanitary and improper operation and bring the permit holder before the board."

Press Agent for Hughes Arrested for Non-Support

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Johnny Meyer, press agent for Howard Hughes, millionaire plane and movie maker, was arrested early today charged with failing to support the nine-months-old son of a former cigaret girl.

A New York City detective and Elvin Unterman, counsel for the mother, Patricia Miles, trailed Meyer to the El Morocco night club where the arrest took place.

Meyer was with a party of friends when served with the warrant and hustled off to the East 51st street station.

After being booked on a charge of being the child's father and failing to contribute to its support, he was taken to city prison.

He is to be arraigned in special sessions court later in the day.

Meyer, at the time Miss Miles accused him of being father of her child, categorically denied the charge.

Galion Council Acts on Plans

Pass Legislation To Hire Architect To Plan Diesel Building.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 8 — Legislation was passed Tuesday night by city council to employ an architect for the purpose of drawing up plans and specifications for the construction of an additional building at the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant to house the diesel unit which the city has under contract.

The ordinance was declared an emergency, and the rules were suspended to give it second and third readings and vote.

While council heard a number of complaints from several persons in the large lobby present for the meeting, little legislation was passed besides the emergency ordinance.

Another ordinance was passed granting a sum, not to exceed $11, as additional compensation for a 50-hour period of extra work done by Harve Craner, city street employe, and to pay the part-time clerk for the city auditor, $70 per month, and also to pay the same person $70 per month for her work as clerk in the Poor Relief Department of the city.

The matter of removing billboards near City hospital on State Route 61, declared as obstructing the view of motorists, and also at Charles street near the East elementary school, declared to endanger the lives of the school children, was referred to City Solicitor Robert L. Moulton. The billboard representative was present and offered to remove the sign near the hospital if the city will give him permission to place it on the city grounds south of Galion, opposite the Galion Country club golf course.

A request was received by council asking for an additional 35 feet for parking the buses of the Galion-Mansfield Transit line. Attorney Kenneth M. Petri, representing the bus company declared that the buses must park in the street, thus providing a hazardous situation for the buses, their passengers and other car drivers. This was referred to the street and sewer committee.

3 Traffic Accidents Reported at Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 8—Three minor traffic mishaps Tuesday brought the total to 10 for the month, more than one a day. Most serious of the accidents involved a parked car belonging to Paul V. Witter, Bucyrus, which was badly damaged when it was struck by a car driven by Milton Crawford of Marion.

In an accident on Washington square, a boy on a bicycle was knocked from his vehicle when it was struck by a car driven by Herman Leroy Lutz of Marion. Lutz told police the boy was uninjured and left before he could secure his name.

The other mishap involved a car belonging to W. G. Hafer of near Bucyrus, who reported that both doors of his car had been damaged while the car was parked on South Walnut street.

A rural traffic accident investigated by the sheriff's office resulted in damage to a house trailer driven by Harriet Smith, Ypsilanti, Mich., and a truck operated by David Martin of Lima. Both vehicles were slightly damaged when the truck struck the house trailer as the latter turned into a roadside stand, six miles east of Bucyrus on U.S. route 30-N.

BUCYRUS, Oct. 8—The body of Leonard J. Mauser, 26, of Bedford, O. was returned to Bedford Tuesday by the Munz Funeral home. Mauser died in City hospital at 10 o'clock Monday night of third degree burns over the entire body received when gasoline ignited following a two-truck traffic accident east of Upper Sandusky Monday morning. Mauser was thrown from his truck cab into the flaming gasoline by the impact when his truck struck a bridge abutment while attempting to pass another truck.

BRONC-RIDING champion Jerry Ambler has had years of experience in riding — starting when he was knee-high to a saddle, and including year after year of rodeo competition. A Camel smoker for several years, he had a revealing experience during the wartime cigarette shortage.

"Naturally," says Jerry, "I smoked whatever brands I could get. I compared them all — and learned by experience that Camels suit me best."

Smokers all over the country had that same experience. With smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience." Try Camels yourself.

According to a Nationwide survey:

MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE

When 113,597 doctors were asked by three leading independent research organizations to name the cigarette they smoked, more doctors named Camel than any other brand!

Who Says It's a Lie?

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, that amiable lady who speaks for all of us in the United Nations general assembly, has pinned back Andrei Vishinsky's ears with a spirited defense of American freedom. It will have no effect on Russians, who won't hear about it, but it's interesting to Americans.

Since this happens to be what newspaper week, now ending, is all about anyway, a few comments on Mrs. Roosevelt's thesis are in order. Americans cling to the right of criticism and disagreement, she declared. The subject under discussion was a Russian proposal to have the United Nations get behind a pact forbidding newspapers to print "false" information that might hurt relations among the pact's signers—press censorship on an international scale.

Otherwise, it's the same old gag that 99 out of 100 politicians carry around in their hip pockets, dreaming about the day when they may be able to stuff it down the nearest editor's throat. The conflict between the people's right to criticize politicians and the politicians' itch to get rid of criticism once and for all is irreconcilable. And to those who yip bitterly, "Look what's calling itself 'the people'" there's one answer:

Newspapers are the trustees of the freedom to print; they have risen and fallen in this country according to their ability to please the readers whose money supports them. It isn't a perfect arrangement, but it keeps the newspapers of the United States closer to the people than any other arrangement ever devised.

But to get back to Mrs. Roosevelt and the right to criticize. She's oh so right when she defends the right to criticize and disagree. Hundreds of newspapers, as she possibly remembers, criticized her when she was this country's first lady, and disagreed with her apparent conviction that our native and imported pinkies were just a lot of fun-loving boys and girls. She didn't like that and probably would have called some of it "false." Her husband, the president of the United States, made a kind of hobby of editing the American press from his White House desk. He found lots of lies in the press, many of which turned out to be true.

In other words, the only way a free press can tell the truth is to have the right to tell what someone always is going to call a lie—a Ku Kluxer appointed to the supreme court, WPA money diverted to politics, secret agreements at Yalta, Kansas City vote frauds, etc. The people themselves ultimately have the privilege of deciding what's truth, what's falsehood, what's a little of each.

Most newspapers will feel relieved to find Mrs. Roosevelt so valiant in their defense before the United Nations general assembly. There have been times when she had no reason to love the trustees of press freedom in this country herself, but apparently she can take it and come back still believing in the first amendment, which is more than many public-life notables have been able to do.

On What Meat Do They Feed?

THE unexpected flareback from Washington's first broadside about eating no meat on Tuesday and no fowl on Thursday is a puzzled question from the taxpayers:

Where do those birds in Washington get the idea that the American people can afford to eat meat on the remaining five days of the week?

It didn't take long for newspapers to learn what bureaucrats, with their reliance on statistical fallacies, never can find out—that most American families already had cut out meat a couple of days each week, not because they wanted to but because the Truman administration's fumble-bumble with economic problems has helped make prices soar out of reach.

It apparently isn't the wish of the Washington planners that people already going without meat two days a week should add one more day to their vegetarian devotions. At the same time, it isn't the planners' wish that all of us should step up our meat eating to the five-day minimum they specify—a minimum that would be a maximum beyond attainment for most American families.

President Truman, Mr. Luckman and the other ladies and gentlemen who have doped out the meat-saving program have demonstrated they don't know enough about the country to be telling it what to do. The cream-skimmers in this country who say that people are eating too much should quit looking in the mirror and go look at people instead.

Reds Watch France and Italy

By MARK SULLIVAN

Seen as Anxious To Profit by Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Since President Truman, barely a week ago, laid before leaders of Congress the need for funds to avert crisis in Italy and France, that crisis has come nearer. Mr. Truman's estimate, based on information as of a week ago, was that France and Italy could be tided over until Dec. 1 by existing funds available in various governmental agencies. His request from Congress for 580 million dollars was for a period beginning on that date. But information coming from Europe within the week says that crisis, in France especially, may come even before Nov. 1.

As expressed in figures, the crisis is described as one of money. France has some $450,000,000 of gold reserves, but is drawing on this at the rate of $120,000,000 a month. Crisis will not wait until exhaustion of the funds; it will come upon realization of near-exhaustion. In Italy, gold reserves are non-existent. Exhaustion of gold reserves, among other calamitous effects, is exhaustion of ability to buy abroad what the countries desperately need for their industries and to sustain their peoples.

But figures and money are merely the index of the crisis. Basically the crisis is progress made by the Communists in bringing about economic collapse, leading, as they hope, to opportunity for them to take over.

Industrial Paralysis Promoted

Their strategy is satanic, many-sided and subtle. First, they promote industrial paralysis. In France, the interruption of production and recovery is progressive. A measure of this is cessation of production, much of it because of strikes. The figures for last spring are valuable. In April the number of work days lost was just short of 100,000. In May it increased to just over 500,000, in June over 600,000. Just how many strikes are caused directly by Communists cannot, of course, be said. But it is certain they cause many, and that all serve their purpose.

Having promoted the retarding of production, the use the Communists make of it is Machiavellian. They point to it as showing the French people that the present system does not work, and that they had therefore better accept Communism. To this argument is added another effect. Retarding of production weakens the prestige of the French government, which is, of course, to the advantage of the Communist effort to take over. Again, the Retarding of production tempts or intimidates the French government into using the scant reserves it has, and thereby hastens the crisis which the government wishes to avert, and the Communists hope for.

Subtly the Communists count on an effect in America. They assume Americans will say, why should be help a people who do not help themselves as much as they might, who because of strikes and in other ways do not produce the goods they need and for which they turn to us? This calculation of the Communists has to some extent been borne out in America; some of our people say what the Communists wish them to say. But Americans who take this position are falling into a confusion of words. They do not distinguish between the French people as a whole and the Communists in France, who promote what Americans complain of.

Depreciate American Aid

As another subtlety, the Communists, having achieved a condition in some areas of American thought, make use of it in France. They tell the French people that America is not likely to help or that American help, if it comes, will be too little to be effective.

The Communist subtlety is infinite. Wishing to prevent help from America, they practice a strategy designed to make our people think our help is already too late and therefore useless to give. In Italy they are intensifying their interruptions of production by strikes and their demonstrations against the government, hoping to make America think that collapse of Italy and fall of the government is imminent.

As for us, our immediate interest is speed in giving help. Our long-range interest goes to the heart of our whole world problem, focused in our relation to Russia. France and Italy are the largest countries in Europe outside Russia and omitting Germany. If these two countries go toward Communism, little of western Europe would be left. France and Italy on the Continent, with England, are the backbone of the organization of sixteen European countries to co-operate for self-help, to the end of averting Communism and Russian domination. If these two should fall, the sixteen-nation program would fall, too. Our Marshall plan, which contemplates helping the sixteen nation organization after they have accomplished the self-help they have begun, would become futile. The setback to us in our conflict with Russia would be disastrous, and that conflict would pass into a new and ominous stage.

Fare Enough For Straphangers?

A Houston, Texas councilman has proposed an ordinance whereunder standees on buses would ride for half fare.

That would ease the load on their pocketbooks if not on their feet.

It might also encourage the transit company to put on a few extra vehicles . . . . or is that too much to hope?

Transit companies figure the capacity of their buses in square feet. The fallacy here is that there are so few square citizens.

So far as I can determine, however, there is no truth in the rumor that step-to-the-rear-of-car-please boys are given their basic training in sardine canneries.

As a habitual standee, this half-price for straphangers business appeals to me. If it didn't accomplish anything else, at least we could take the money saved and apply it on our cornplaster bill.

Special Sessions of Congress

Chief Executives Dread Them—With Reason.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN won't call a special session of Congress unless things get worse than they are now. That's the principal decision reached in Washington since the President came home from his trip to South America.

Chief executives have good reason to beware of special sessions when the political opposition is in control of one or both houses of Congress. Only two such sessions have met in the 20th century, each in the year preceding a presidential election. In each election, incidentally, voters threw out the party in control of the executive branch.

Only 26 special sessions have been called since establishment of the federal government in 1789, 13 of them during the last half century. Special sessions to get new administrations under way were called by President Roosevelt in March, 1933; by President Hoover in April, 1929; by President Wilson in April, 1913; by President Taft in March, 1909; by President McKinley in March, 1897.

President Wilson called a special session in April, 1917, to declare war on Germany. A special session that year would have been necessary in any case because the 64th Congress failed to take final action on various appropriation bills before it adjourned on March 4, 1917.

Adoption of the "lame-duck" amendment in 1933 was expected to eliminate the principal need for special sessions because it removed the opportunity to force them by filibustering appropriations bills—the experience of 1917. It provided that the newly-elected Congress would meet in its regular session shortly before, instead of nine months after, the inauguration of a new chief executive.

Two special sessions were called after the first New Deal session in 1933. The first met in the autumn of 1937 to consider a new agricultural adjustment bill following the Supreme Court's invalidation of the Adjustment Act of 1933. The second met in September, 1939, after the outbreak of World War II, to revise the Neutrality Act of 1935.

In 1919, President Wilson called a special session by cable from Paris. He was forced into this action by a filibuster at the close of the 65th Congress which had killed six major appropriation bills. The new Congress, controlled in both houses by Republicans, was called to meet in May. It played havoc with the administration's domestic program and ended in November with Senate rejection of the Versailles Treaty.

In 1911, President Taft called a special session of the Congress elected in 1910 to act on his reciprocity agreement with Canada. The Senate was Republican, but the voters had given control of the House to the Democrats. The Democrats supported the reciprocity program and the bill was put through in July, after four months of bitter wrangling. The reciprocity program widened the split in the Republican party and was turned into a disaster for the Taft administration when the agreement was rejected by the voters of Canada.

Try, Try Again

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—President Harry S. Truman, the state department, and the administration advisers have decided to try again. They will try to find some way to squeeze a few millions of dollars, out of the vast sums which congress has appropriated for other purposes, to keep western Europe ticking over until congress is ready to act. Already, a thorough job of combing over the various possibilities has been done. As a result it has been reported to the President that only congressional action could provide the necessary dollars. But now, the order has come from the White House to start the combing process again, and to comb more thoroughly. The reason is simple. Congressional action will almost certainly come too late. And the President and his advisers know it.

The present schedule of congressional action was established at last week's White House meeting between the administration and congressional leaders. It calls for completion of the Harriman report by the first week in November; the hearings of the senate foreign relations, house foreign affairs, and senate and house appropriations committees to be finished by Dec. 1, a special session to be called in the first week of December, and the necessary appropriations for France and Italy to be voted by Christmas.

Called Just "Hopes"

This is more a catalogue of hopes than a schedule. For one thing it assumes that the bull-headed Representative John Taber, chairman of the house appropriations committee, can somehow be persuaded that the European crisis is something more than a plot to wreck Republican tax and budget plans. This in itself would be something of a major miracle, since Taber has already implied that the Europeans are in fine shape, but just lazy. It was hoped that first-hand experience of Europe might force Taber to face the facts of the European situation. Thus Taber's recent statement, which seemed to indicate that nothing short of visible mass starvation would persuade him of the need for action, has filled the administration policy-makers with gloomy forebodings.

Yet even if Taber, who almost succeeded single-handed in wrecking American policy in the Near East, is somenow hypnotized into realizing the real meaning of the European crisis to the United States, only the first of a series of hurdles will have been crossed. As Senator Arthur Vandenberg is reported to have pointed out to President Truman at last week's conference, as few as six or seven senators, opposed to the interim aid appropriation, could easily delay it indefinitely. There would be no need to filibuster. They could merely present themselves in the role of defenders of the right of the American senate to debate any major issue thoroughly. The debate might last well into the new year. Moreover, the die-hard senators would find a useful ally in the creeping domestic inflation. Many politicians, busily seeking a scapgoat for high prices, are increasingly tempted to point the finger of blame at foreign spending.

Still "Too Late"

Yet assume that the hoped-for best comes to pass. Assume that by Dec. 25 the congress has appropriated the 580 millions for which the President asked. This figure itself is believed to be hardly a quarter of what Under Secretary of State Will Clayton cabled from Europe would be necessary to do the job, and it is certainly some hundreds of millions of dollars less than the state department estimate. There is some disposition in Washington to suspect that President Truman pulled the figure out of his natty grey fedora. Yet even if the amount appropriated is not too little, the action taken will certainly come too late.

Unless something is done very soon, the pipelines to Europe would already have been empty for a month by Dec. 25, as Under Secretary of State Robert Lovett has acknowledged. They could not be filled again over night. Thus, even if President Truman's congressional schedule adhered to, the two grimmest months of the European winter, December and January, would usher in mass unemployment and something close to starvation. The slowly recovering economies of Italy and France would receive a setback from which they might never recover. And the political results in western Europe would be almost mathematically calculable. The inclusion of France and Italy with the Soviet puppets in the Kremlin's new international reveal how confidently the Kremlin is calculating on these results.

"Pulling and Stretching" Urged

That is why the administration's lawyers and experts have been told to go back and try again to find some means—almost any means—of getting dollars to Europe without preliminary congressional sanction. To this end a new series of conferences is about to start. The Export Import bank, the Commodity Credit corporation, the frozen holdings of Europe nationals in this country, these and other possible sources of dollar aid will again be carefully scrutinized. Possibly informal congressional sanction will be requested before anything is done. Even so, as one administration adviser remarked, "it will take a lot of pulling and stretching of the original congressional intent." Certainly, if ever before in American history, a bit of "pulling and stretching" can be justified.

In China, the name of Santa Claus is Lau Khoong, which means nice old father.

The Once Over

Why Not a Simplified Food Saving Speech?

(Respectfully suggested to President Truman, Mr. Charles Luckman and all others now running in somewhat high sounding messages to get over the point.)

"Fellow citizens of the United States: You are befuddled enough. The demand of the moment in a crisis quite as great as World War II is for plain facts, plainly stated. The simple truth is that, with all allowances for charitable impulses, this matter of tightening our belts to feed the stricken people of Europe is also a matter of self-defense against disaster certain to approach the end of another war—and likely to end in another war.

* * *

"The peoples of Europe can be driven into the Communist camp by hunger. A Communist Europe would make Russia top dog. And with Russia top dog, American economic interests would get one terrific chewing up, and I don't mean maybe. It would mean a blitz on foreign markets which could put you and you and you behind the eight ball. It would bring on a depression if not another war. It will be smart to be a thinner food consumer than a fatter dope.

* * *

"Russia wants no more useful weapon in the crisis than YOUR KNIFE AND FORK.

* * *

"An army crawls on its stomach. A new [illegible] war could crawl onto us over yours.

* * *

"Americans have never failed to help the needy. Their humanitarian impulses are undoubtioned. The point to make just now is, fellow citizens, that you are all mixed up and don't quite know the score. You have been more or less confused by Washington's slow motion and rapid changes of pace. But forget all that! Even make some allowances for politics. Just get into your head that here is a crisis almost as grave, and in some respects graver, than Pearl Harbor. And the fight to save Europe from Joe Stalin calls for the same show of determination, patriotism, sacrifice and guts as you had to show in the fight to save it from Adolph Hitler.

* * *

"The stakes are even greater. It could easily be that by comparison you were merely playing for marbles in the recent global shindig.

* * *

"The great break this time is that instead of giving us your sons, your husbands and your brothers, you are merely being asked to give up a few slices of bread, a little butter, etc., and be easy on the grub in general. You can win this one by pushing your plate away sooner and getting full duty out of the soup bone.

* * *

"You are called on to fight another Battle of the Bulge, but the bulge will involve only your waistline, brother. You are asked to establish bridgeheads, not across rivers but across human selfishness. You are not asked to operate in shellholes; just hold the line in the pantry and kitchen.

Great Game

By TRUMAN TWILL

We have no complaint against football. It was a dandy game while it lasted. But as a game it expired when it quit being a contest between two teams of roughnecks with a relish for rough play in pastures and abandoned gravel banks and became a mob scene with special costumes and lighting effects.

What's left of the game is now a minor detail—a kind of excuse for staging a spectacle that would have had Nero biting his nails in a frenzy of delight. They've fed football to the lions, and the lions are now the main attraction.

The lions lope and gyrate on the greensward, trot officiously back and forth in striped suits armed with whistles, horns and pistols. They play shiny instruments in the marching bands, turn handsprings for public edification, mass mind the spectacle from an office under the stands, wave lighted sticks for the delight of people who enjoy everything twice as much when the lights are turned out and kick their heels all the way up to here, meanwhile twirling batons and leaning over backward to please the public.

The lions wear colorful costumes and are trained to do things that will make them more useful citizens in later life, something that the mere game of football never could claim to do. It's a wonder that any football players ever are permitted to get inside the same enclosure with all the people who have taken over what is now called, euphemistically, the game of football. They are almost as unnecessary as a sense of duty in American citizenship.

A football player still can be glimpsed occasionally in the mad melange of vaudeville, fireworks, sham battles, whirling dervishes, love scenes and protestations of undying loyalty to dear ole Squeedunk. It is a little hard to be sure what he's doing, but apparently is on his way to the game with a hot message from the coach who wants the boys to remember what he told them last week in practice.

The game, what's left of it, is in the far corner of the field and usually takes the form of an academic discussion, with the players standing in groups arguing, sometimes with each other, sometimes with the officials. Occasionally the discussion is interrupted while they dart at each other before going back to their discussion.

All this can be seen only in fitful glances because merchants keep getting in the way with pails and baskets of their wares and people who apparently are out for a walk keep strolling across and holding 10-minute reunions with old friends in the row just ahead. The management, taking these difficulties into consideration, tries to furnish visual and auditory aids, but these are very helpful. About halfway through the second half of the game many of the customers get up and go home. They've had enough baffle-gab for one dose.

The brain is a hollow organ, the inside of which consist of chambers communicating with one another and filled with a fluid secretion and a network of nerves.

Storm Over I'm-No-Red Pledge Quiets but May Not Be Ended

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The storm over the I-swear-I'm-not-Communist part of the new labor law has quieted down. But it may not be ended.

The new law, the Taft-Hartley act, is carried out by the five-man national labor relations board and its general counsel, Robert Denham.

Any union which wants the board's protection and help from the board must do certain things laid down by the act. One of them is this:

James Marlow

An oath that officers are not Communists must be taken by the "officers of any national or international labor organization of which it is an affiliate or constituent union." The quoted matter is from the law.

What does that mean? Exactly what union officers have to take the non-Communist oath? Denham said it meant this:

1. The officers of any local union seeking the law's protection and the officers of the national union of which the local is a part.

2. And the officers of the AFL and CIO, the big organizations made up of more than 140 unions, must also take the oath.

Created Storm

That ruling of Denham's created a storm among labor leaders. Yesterday the labor board overruled Denham by announcing:

The AFL and CIO officers don't have to take the oath. It must be taken only by the officers of local and national unions.

Denham bowed to the board and said he'd accept as final its decision overruling him.

Because of Denham's ruling, which remained the rule until yesterday when the board stepped in, this had happened:

Not one of the 140 unions with 13,000,000 in the AFL and CIO was under the board's protection because—

None of the AFL or CIO officers had taken the oath so no local or national AFL or CIO union could get help from the board.

The CIO officers had just not taken the oath, quietly. There was a big row, though, in the AFL.

Lewis Balks

Some of the AFL officers were willing to take the oath. John L. Lewis, an AFL officer, refused to take the oath.

Lewis is no Communist. His refusal was part of his general opposition to the whole Taft-Hartley act.

It caused bitterness among some of the AFL officers who wanted to sign. Some threatened to take their unions out of the AFL.

So it would seem, at first glance, that the board's ruling and Denham's willingness to go along with the board make the law's path smoother.

There is still a problem for the officers of the AFL and it's due to this:

There are about 1,500 "federal locals," unions which don't belong to any national unions but are tied in directly with AFL.

Can they get the board's protection if their officers swear they're not Communists?

Or, since they're tied in directly with the AFL, will the AFL officers have to swear anyway before these "federal locals" can get board help?

Decision Coming Up

Denham and the board may have to decide that one. If the board decides the AFL officers have to sign, then—

The quarrel between Lewis and the AFL officers who want to sign probably will remain bitter and no one now can tell the outcome.

There's another point. The board said it didn't think that congress, when it passed the law, meant to force AFL and CIO officers to swear.

But congress, when it returns in January, may think otherwise and want to change the act and say clearly that AFL and CIO leaders must swear.

And there's this point. In spite of Denham and the board, some employer may decide he thinks the top AFL and CIO leaders must swear they're not Communists before any employer has to deal with an AFL or CIO union.

If this happens that employer will force his case into federal court to get a ruling from a judge. Once it gets into court, the question is sure to go on up through the courts to the supreme court for a final answer.

(Note: Congress' purpose in putting the I-Swear-I'm-not-a-Communist requirement in the law was to drive Communists out of jobs as union leaders.

(No union with a Communist officer can get board help. So a union deprived of board help because it had a Communist officer might be apt to get rid of him.

(It's not a violation of the law if a union's officers refuse to swear. But, unless they do, that union can't get help from the board.)

BRITISH SHAKEUP HAS VARIED PRESS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 8 — A drastic overhauling of the Labor government, in which five cabinet ministers were ousted and leftwing Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell was demoted, drew some British cheers and some jeers today.

British press comment on yesterday's sweeping changes generally followed party lines and ranged from the full endorsement of the Laborite Daily Herald to the outright protest of the Conservative Daily Graphic, which declared that nothing less than a coalition regime could fight successfully the nation's crucial battle against economic disaster.

The trend of most opposition comment was that Prime Minister Attlee had strengthened his position somewhat by bringing in new—and younger—blood and eliminating "deadwood," but that still more strength was needed.

HIGH COURT SPURNS PLEA OF OHIO KILLERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8—The Ohio supreme court today turned down appeals by James Griffin Jr., and Robert Britton from death sentences for the slaying June 21, 1946 of Lee Webb in a Cleveland gambling house. The court set Oct. 29 for their electrocution in Ohio penitentiary.

The two were convicted together of first degree murder in the slaying.

A third man, Floyd Dace, also was sentenced to the electric chair, but the case is still in the district court of appeals at Cleveland.

The court also refused to consider appeals of Joseph Sanfilippo of Cleveland from a first degree murder conviction with clemency, and Arthur Clark and William Brown also of Cleveland from second degree murder convictions.

All received life prison sentences.

Sanfilippo was convicted of killing Charles Slivka March 23, 1938 following a drinking and gambling escapade. Clark and Williams were convicted of bludgeoning Wash Larry to death in an effort to scare him into vacating a room in a building owned by Clark.

The court also refused to review convictions of Jasper Provens of Lawrence county on charges of rape; John Williams of Summit county on charges of unarmed robbery and Lawrence Bucher of Ross county on charges of grand larceny.

Grocer Slashes Prices "To Stop Inflation"

By The Associated Press

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 8—Price-cutting grocer who just wants "to stop inflation" today had the pledged support of hundreds of housewives, a doubled business receipt and a firm conviction that anti-inflation tactics are highly popular with the housewife.

Tedaldo (Bernie) Guido launched a campaign of reduced prices in his combination grocery and meat store yesterday and by the time midnight rolled around there was an extra clerk in the store and a line of enthusiastic customers.

Some of his prices were 18 cents a quart of milk (20 cents in most stores); 69 cents for a pound of 93-score butter (usually 87 cents), and 13 cents for a loaf of bread that normally brought 15 cents.

"I'm trying to do my part to stop inflation," Guido explained. "I'm not losing money. Just splitting the profits with my customers."

TUBE-FED MAN EATS FIRST PORK CHOPS

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8—Mickey Schuster, who was fed through a tube inserted in his stomach for 26 of his 28 years, ate a pork chop dinner last night and then nibbled on a chocolate covered cherry.

"It's wonderful to be able to eat like other people," said Mickey, who is recovering from a series of operations that enabled him to swallow food normally for the first time since he swallowed a can of lye at the age of two.

"I could taste the food before," Mickey added, "but I couldn't swallow it. That way I worked up a terrific urge for it."

Physicians said the Youngstown, O., furniture worker can look forward to a normal life at the dinner table although it will be another month before he leaves the hospital and he won't be able to return to work until next spring.

Mickey had only three inches of esophagus leading to his stomach which the operations raised to chest level. A normal person has a nine-inch esophagus.

Miller-Little Ceremony Read At Church Here

MISS MARJORIE MILLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Miller of 426 Mary street, became the bride Sunday of Homer T. Little Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer T. Little of 627 North Main street. The double ring ceremony was read at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Epworth Methodist church by the pastor, Dr. V. E. Busler. The custom of open church was observed.

The altar, decorated with tall baskets of white carnations and baby mums, was lighted by candles in seven branch candelabra tied with ferns at either side.

Preceding the ceremony, a half-hour program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Cecil Davis, organist. Her selections included "The Church's One Foundation," "Liebestraum," Liszt, "Polonaise," Chopin, "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn," Godard, "Clair de Lune," Debussey, "Always," Berlin, "Largo," Handel, "Through the Years," Youmans, "La Estrellita," Ponce, and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony, she played "Romance," Rubinstein.

The bride escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace styled with a fitted bodice with a deep sheer yoke and long fitted sleeves. The full skirt extended into a long train. A halo of orange blossoms held her fingertip veil of bridal illusion, and her jewelry was a diamond lavaliere, a gift from her mother and was formerly worn by her. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. William Veness of east of Marion. She was attired in a pink brocaded satin gown fashioned with a bustle back. She wore long pink lace gloves and a halo of pink net in her hair, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white baby mums.

William Anderson of Marion served as best man, and ushers were Robert Miller, brother of the bride, and Gene Martin of Marion, John Little of LaRue, brother of the bridegroom, and Loren Coy of Mt. Victory.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller chose a black crepe dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Little was attired in a wine colored dress and combined matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of gardenias.

For her going away costume, Mrs. Little chose a "hunter" green suit with matching accessories and wore a brooch set with brilliants, a gift from Mr. Little. Following a short motor trip to Chicago, the couple will be at home at 261 Kensington place.

Mrs. Little is a graduate of Harding High school with the class of 1942, and is employed as a secretary with the Marion Power Shovel Co. Mr. Little, a graduate of Harding High school with the class of 1940, served three years with the U. S. Marines in World War II, with two years of that time in the Pacific. He is employed with the Midwest Sand Blasting Co.

Out of town guests were from McDermott, Columbus, LaRue, Mt. Victory, Defiance, Monroeville and Caledonia.

At a rehearsal party Saturday night at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Miller presented her attendant with matching pin and earrings, and Mr. Little gave his best man a hand-tooled leather belt, and tie clasps to the ushers.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Millie Cull and Mrs. Gladys Wilford, both of 352 North Main street, were weekend guests of Miss Maude Stout in West Liberty.

OHIO DANCER GOES ON TRIAL

"Satira" Takes Stand in First Day's Proceedings on Yacht Murder.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Oct. 8 — Patricia Schmidt testified today she first lived with John Lester Mee of Chicago, whom she is accused of murdering, "after we met in Havana" and they had their first quarrel here also.

She was answering questions of Public Prosecutor Jose Manuel Fuentes Carretero, who had requested the Audencia court to sentence the 22-year-old Toledo, O., dancer to 30 years in prison for shooting Mee aboard his yacht Satira in Havana harbor last April.

"My friendship with Jack Mee was not intimate until after he promised to marry me and wrote me many love letters," she testified.

Weeps During Opening

She had wept during the reading of the charges and appeared nervous and excited.

"He cabled me in Trinidad asking that I meet him in Havana," the dancer swore.

Mee had sailed the yacht Satira, the same name used by the dancer in Caribbean hot spots, to Havana Jan. 12, and Patricia met him here.

His friend, Charles Jackson of River Forest, Ill., has been accused of concealing facts about the shooting. The public prosecutor asked that Jackson be acquitted but a private prosecutor hired by the Mee family recommended he be sentenced to three years in prison.

Financed Only Divorce

Asked if Mee gave her financial support, Patricia replied.

"The only money he ever offered me was to finance my divorce." She said her previous marriage to Carl Sperry of Chicago had ended by mutual agreement in divorce.

Then she told the prosecutor:

"Six weeks after I went with Jack aboard the boat, I learned he already was married. Our love began to break up.

"He held me a virtual prisoner until April, refusing to let me leave, taking my clothing and money and censoring my mail."

She testified she learned a pistol was on the yacht when she first went aboard. This she discovered when she opened a drawer to put away clothing.

The prosecutor questioned her at length about the pistol, which the defense claims was fired accidentally in a frenzy of fear and in self defense.

The courtroom was packed with sweating spectators white and and black. Some stood on benches. One of the spectators was Charles Albert Hutchison, first secretary of the U. S. embassy, there to see that Miss Schmidt's rights as an American citizen were observed.

The scene affected spectators, but they soon quieted.

Then court was recessed until Oct. 14.

Embassy Charged With Aiding Satira

By International News Service

HAVANA, Oct. 8—An angry charge that the U. S. embassy in Havana has given unfair aid to Patricia Schmidt was made today immediately prior to the opening of the murder trial of the 22-year-old night club dancer.

John Franklin Arnold, a Chicago attorney assisting private prosecutors retained by Mee's father, Dr. Lester Mee, made the charge of embassy intervention.

He asserted the embassy had supplied the court and the defense attorneys with the dead man's war fatigue record while ordering it be withheld from the private prosecutors. Arnold said he had demanded an explanation from Charles Hutchinson, first secretary of the embassy. Mee's father, he added, will ask a federal investigation.

The medical record is expected to play an important part in the twice-postponed trial to substantiate the defense claim that Mee was nervous and excitable.

Patricia is expected to declare on the witness stand that she killed Mee because he threatened her with a sword used in her exotic dances.

PLANE

Norton airport near London on Sept. 11. It returned to Stephenville yesterday en route to its base at Wilmington.

Col. Benjamin S. Kelsey, who fathered the project as first chief of the all-weather flying division, said the Atlantic trip is "simply a milestone down a long road—this is certainly far from the end."

Insisting that the specially equipped plane has no radical concepts in flight control, Kelsey said the only new principle involved is accomplishing in their entirety a series of automatic control features already known.

The only equipment aboard the planes developed at the all-weather center, Taylor said, is the sequence selector—the huge panel generally described as the plane's electronic brain.

This device, which he compared to a dial telephone system, provides for the proper steps to be taken at the right time, such as advancing throttles and releasing brakes for take-off; raising landing-gear and flaps; retarding throttle to cruise position; maintaining a heading for the automatic pilot and, finally, going through the descent and landing procedures.

RAIL FREIGHT RATES HIKED 10 PER CENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—A 10 per cent emergency freight rate increase amounting to $700,000,000 annually has been granted to the nation's railroads, which hoped today to put the boost into effect next Monday.

The interstate commerce commission authorized the temporary increase yesterday, pending a decision on the railroad's plea for a permanent 27 per cent increase over present rates. The ICC also:

► Authorized all domestic water carriers and freight forwarders (who collect small lots of freight for carload shipments) to make the same 10 per cent increase.

► In a separate action, gave 37 railroads in the south permission to advance passenger fares for sleeping and parlor cars from 3 3 to 3 5 cents a mile and authorized 28 southern roads to raise basic coach fares from 2.2 to 2 5 cents a mile.

The passenger fare increases may be put into effect on five days notice but the roads gave no indication when they might act. Not all of the railroads had asked permission to boost the fares.

recommended placing her in a state school or private institution.

Has Undeveloped Mind

He found she was physically normal in most ways, apparently, but because of an injury at birth, had the mentality of a child of nine.

"The child is, without doubt, more interested in the pomp and color of the candle lighting ceremony than she is in lighting of candles per se," Dr. Neuberger said in his report.

He noted that she was cooperative throughout the observation period and seemed to know she was different from other children and did not get along with them well.

Gayle Owens, of Marion, assistant state fire marshal who conucted much of the investigation, confirmed Dr. Neuberger's observation about her fascination with the color of candle lighting.

Unless new information develops, Gill said, his office considers the case closed. The full file has been turned over to Juvenile Judge Kenneth T. Stevens at Chillicothe for any action he believes necessary, he added.

Mansfield Jail Break Foiled

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 8—Two Franklin county sheriffs were beaten over the head with an iron bed post today by a prisoner they were taking to the Mansfield reformatory, but the attempted escape was frustrated.

Two stitches were required to close a deep gash in the head of Deputy Jay Breckman. Deputy Thurlow Timmons, also of Columbus, was bruised.

They identified their assailant as Lewis Wiley, 21, Columbus. The deputies were taking Wiley, sentenced to a one-to-20-year term for auto theft, and Dwight Mercer of Columbus, sentenced to a one-to-15-year grand larceny term, to the reformatory from Columbus.

The youths were handcuffed arm-to-arm in the back seat. The deputies were in the front seat. As Breckman, who was driving, turned into the driveway about a half-mile from the reformatory, Wiley pulled the iron bar from his trousers and attacked both deputies, they said.

Breckman said he stopped the car, he and Timmons jumped out, drew their guns and stopped the attempted escape. Both deputies said Mercer had no connection with the assault.

SOLONS QUIZ NLRB ON NO-RED REVERSAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Administrators of the Taft-Hartley act faced a congressional quiz today on their decision to exempt top AFL and CIO officials from filing non-Communist pledges under the new law.

Chairman Ball (R-Minn) called the five members of the national labor relations board and Robert N. Denham board general counsel, to a closed session of the senate-house "watchdog" committee on the new labor law.

"We won't put them on the spot or anything but we undoubtedly will discuss their decision," Ball told reporters.

The committee chairman and Senator Ives (R-NY) made it clear they think the NLRB's 4 to 1 ruling reflected the intent of congress that AFL and CIO officials were not to be included in the law's requirement that union officers must file the pledges.

But Senator Ellender (D-La) contended the NLRB was wrong. He said he feels the AFL and CIO leaders should file the Communism disclaimers, too, although he added that he has no plans now to offer an amendment to the law to accomplish that purpose.

In its ruling the NLRB overrode a prior, contrary opinion by Denham.

CIO Re-examining Policy Concerning Communists

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 8—CIO leaders today began re-examining the policies of their unions on the hot question of whether to give non-Communist pledges to the government.

The 52-man CIO executive board met here in preparation for the CIO convention opening Monday, and here was the situation:

1. Because of a ruling by the national labor relations board yesterday, it is no longer necessary for the 11 officers of the CIO to file non-Communist statements before any of the 41 CIO unions can ask the NLRB for protection or help.

2. This takes the steam out of an expected fight at the meetings here, because it's now up to each union to decide what it wants to do, rather than the CIO itself.

3. But the CIO executive board can still recommend—though not control—what course the member unions take.

CIO President Philip Murray declined to comment on what the board or the convention might recommend.

BRITAIN SEES FURTHER CURBS

Must Slash Dollar Expenditures Unless Help Comes, Cripps Says.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 8—Sir Stafford Cripps told a news conference today Britain would "be driven" to slash deeper on dollar expenditure unless new dollar aid for Britain and the rest of Europe came "within the quite near future."

Cripps addressed reporters for the first time since his appointment to the new post of minister for economic affairs.

He said more cutting of expenditures would start a process which "unless rapidly arrested, would lead on to a gradual economic strangulation."

Dip into Reserves

"We have already begun to dip into our reserve of gold and dollars—a reserve which is none too big and which serves the whole sterling area," he recalled, with an apparent reference to Britain's recently announced sale of $80,000,000 worth of gold to the United States.

Sir Stafford predicted Britain would skid along "a descending spiral of depression" which eventually would extend to other countries if further sharp cuts in dollar buying had to be made.

In cutting dollar imports, he said, "we would probably have to begin with food and tobacco, but it is unlikely that our raw material imports could be exempt." He said the cutting of food resources beyond a certain point "would mean a falling off in our total production" with a resulting further reduction in Britain's trade powers.

Would Fall on Europe

"The blow would fall with particular weight on Europe, whose economic recovery and political stability are linked so closely with our own," he asserted.

Britain, living with present ration levels at near the lowest point reached in wartime, already has slashed American movie and tobacco imports through heavy taxes, and cut down sharply on several other dollar items, including some varieties of food. The daily diet, however, averages about 2,500 calories.

Three Crewmen Killed In Indiana Train Wreck

By The United Press

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 8—Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad said today that five members of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo were among those injured when a passenger train crashed into a road construction machine and jumped off the tracks.

Three of the train's crew members were killed in the wreck and another railroad worker, riding deadhead in the engine, was injured critically. Eight other passengers and crewmen were hurt in addition to the Ballet Russe members.

C. A. Perry, 63, of Fort Wayne, the engineer of the train and W. R. Forshee, 32, of Indianapolis, died in the wreckage of the locomotive which swung completely around and crashed into an earthen embankment.

Fireman Lyle M. Martin of Fort Wayne, died at a hospital.

Royal Wedding Gown To Cost Under $800

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 8 — Princess Elizabeth's wedding gown, now being stitched from secret designs sketched by the queen's dressmaker, will cost something under £200 ($800), it was disclosed today by one of the few persons around the court who really know.

The informant begged to remain anonymous. But a palace spokesman declared a press item asserting the gown would cost $5,000 and be the equivalent of six years of clothes ration coupons, "bears no resemblance to the truth."

Nazi Admits Ordering War Deaths of Million

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 8—Otto Ohlendorf, Nazi S. S. major general, admitted today his "Einsatz commandos" slew a million "racially inferior" people in the east, but denied his own guilt and placed the blame on the Russians.

The first of 23 defendants to take the stand in their trial before an American war crimes court, Ohlendorf said the Jews slain in the east were politically partisan and thus "dangerous."

Ohlendorf said the crime of genocide—extermination of whole races—never occurred to him. He said his men killed off vast populations as a measure to protect the security of German occupation forces.

Small British Plane Reaches Air Speed Of Nearly 900 Miles

By The Associated Press

PADSTOW, Eng., Oct. 8 — A small, pilotless rocket plane, launched by a British bomber high above the Atlantic, attained a speed estimated at 900 miles an hour today in an experiment to determine the effects of flight faster than sound.

The plane was the first of a group to be used by the supply ministry.

The experiments were expected to produce valuable data about performances of ultra high speed aircraft as they approached and surpassed the speed of sound, which varies from about 660 miles an hour at sea level to 760 miles an hour at 30,000 feet.

The robot today was cut loose at 37,000 feet, at a point 14 miles west of the Scilly islands.

It was adjusted to dive into the sea after about 20 miles.

The experimental plane was made of polished mahogany. It had a wing span of eight feet and a length of about 12 feet.

The robot was equipped with transmitting apparatus to report technical details of its behavior. Its alcohol burning motor was an adaptation and improvement of those used in German rocket-propelled fighters during the war.

"Until there has been a thorough study, we shall have no definite information as to whether the robot has actually broken through the sonic barrier," said a scientist working on the project.

"If the tests yield the information it is hoped they will, we shall have made one of the biggest advances yet in the field of supersonic research."

Former Marion Man Returns To State Highway Patrol.

Lt. Floyd C. Moon, former Marion resident, resigned today as acting chief enforcement officer of the state liquor control department and Donald T. Geyer, inspector in charge of the Akron district, was appointed to succeed him, The Associated Press reported.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

EVERY WEEK IS

EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK

AT THE

MARION POWER SHOVEL COMPANY

"Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" is observed annually as a dual service to physically handicapped persons and to employers.

This program was given the sanction of the 79th United States Congress in a joint resolution passed in 1945.

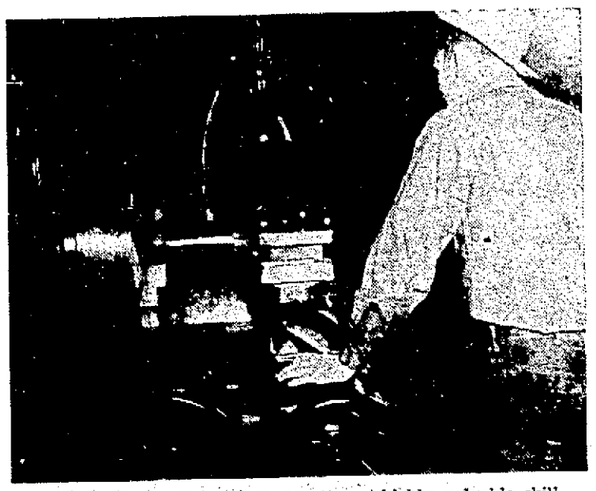
The primary aims of the program are (1) to rehabilitate disabled persons, and (2) to thus perform a service for industries and businesses needing workers. Marion Power Shovel Company is proud to have had a part in this worthy program.

This advertisement, in support of this nationwide program, is published in the hope that others may find on the basis of our experience some opportunity to employ physically handicapped persons to the mutual advantage of the community, the individual and themselves.

MARION DEVELOPS MODEL PLAN

During this second annual National "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week," Marion Power Shovel Company takes stock of its on-the-job training program for both disabled and non-disabled veterans of World War II.

Marion Power Shovel Company's G. I. training system gained nation-wide attention a year ago when it was selected as a model program by the United States Employment Service. An outline of the program was distributed by the USES to its more than 1800 offices throughout the country. A year ago, 110 veterans had enrolled in on-the-job training at Marion Power Shovel Company.



This disabled veteran is learning a highly valuable skill, turret lathe operation, while enrolled in on-the-job training course at Marion Power Shovel Company.

NOTEWORTHY PROGRESS

Today, 12 months later, the facts show that rapid and noteworthy progress has been made in this program. Since inauguration of the program at our plant in July 1946, 191 veterans have enrolled in on-the-job training courses. Of these, 18 completed their courses in less than two years, the customary length of the training period.

EARN WHILE THEY LEARN

All these former G. I.'s are learning valuable crafts and trades under the guidance of experienced workmen. While enrolled in the training course, they draw regular pay from the company plus a subsistence allowance from the Veterans Administration. And all the while, they are training themselves for better jobs in a well-established industry.

This photograph shows another physically handicapped G. I. working on a boring lathe in the machine shop, where a wide range of job opportunities is open to veterans of World War II.

VARIETY OF JOBS

On-the-job training for disabled veterans at Marion Power Shovel Company includes courses for these positions: inspectors, structural layout men, welders, erectors, machinists, tool and fixture designers, draftsmen and route sheet writers. The non-disabled veterans are training for all these positions—plus a host of other highly-regarded trades and crafts.

STATE-APPROVED PLACEMENTS

The training course for each position at Marion Power Shovel Company is planned by the company and approved by the state board of education. Thus the training offered is the result of careful planning by men experienced in the operation of an industry such as ours and individuals whose speciality is education.

MARION'S INVITATION

You World War II veterans can see that Marion Power Shovel Company's on-the-job training program has many significant advantages.

If you are an honorably discharged veteran, why not discuss with us today the many possibilities our company offers for your future?

U. S. Farm Parity Proposals Hit Congressional Opposition

The 'modernized" formula would raise parity for beef cattle from $12 80 to $16 a hundred weight, if the cost of farm labor were included in the computation. But cotton parity would drop from 29 39 cents a pound to 26 25 cents, wheat from $2.10 a bushel to $1.79, and corn from $1 52 to $1 42

5 Other Proposals

In addition to the parity revision and 'floor" under consumption, the program proposed:

1. Authority to use acreage allotments and marketing quotas to meet emergencies in individual commodities, the quotas to be used only when producers approve them by a two-thirds vote

2. More direct government price supports at a moderate level "to give farmers needed price assurance."

3. Government loans and an ever-normal granary.

POLAND URGES UN TO DIVIDE PALESTINE

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 8—Poland today urged the United Nations to drop all other proposed solutions to the Palestine problem and concentrate on plans to partition the Holy Land into separate Jewish and Arab countries.

At the same time, Poland demanded action to permit immediate immigration of 250,000 European Jewish refugees into Palestine despite vigorous Arab protests against further Jewish immigration

Poland's position was outlined by Josef Winiewicz before the general assembly's 57-nation Palestine committee, which already had heard Uruguay and Panama support the partition plan and the Moslem dominion of Pakistan line up with the Arabs in opposing it

Winiewicz did not specifically accept the partition plan, but he expressed opposition to both the Arab plan for an independent Arab state and the minority recommendations of the UN special committee on Palestine (UNSCOP) for a federalized state.

Poland's declaration made it clear the eastern European countries were not following a unified Soviet bloc policy on Palestine Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia already had taken different positions as members of UNSCOP. Czechoslovakia supported the partition plan and Yugoslavia advocated a federalized state

There still was no definite indication as to the stand either Russia or the United States would take Both were expected to make their main policy statements later this week, possibly Thursday or Friday

RUSS AUTHOR SAYS POPE WANTS WAR

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct 8—Soviet Author Boris Kandidov, writing in the Literary Gazette, accused Pope Pius XII today of "entirely and openly calling for war against the Soviet Union."

The writer said the Pope once had helped the Germans to "prepare an invasion of foggy Albion (England) and clean for the Japanese the road to Pearl Harbor." Now, he said, the Pontiff is preparing "sound and lighting effects" for an ecumenical council at which communism is to be declared "the heresy of current times."

The three-column article ridiculed the Pope and President Truman for what it said was an alliance seeking "by every means to assist the aggressive policy of American monopolies."

He termed Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, the "agent of American monopolies." He said the Pope had entrusted to the American prelate, along with Cardinals Play Deniel of Spain and Schuster of Milan, the task of "giving the (ecumenical) council the proper buildup."

(The literary Gazette recently has carried bitter attacks on President Truman, Winston Churchill and other western leaders.)

Four Marion Area Grid Teams Remain in Undefeated Ranks

Upper Sandusky, Kenton, Bucyrus and Marysville To Strive Friday To Keep Slate Clean.

Only four nearby football squads stay in the undefeated column as the fifth session of high school football approaches Friday. Upper Sandusky, Kenton, Bucyrus and Marysville will all try to keep their records shining another week.

The Upper Sandusky Rams will try to make it five straight when they entertain Willard Friday. The Rams added Crestline to their string of victims last week, winning 12-0. Ram victims, Montpelier, Bellevue, Norwalk, and Crestline, have scored but 20 points to the Rams' 57. It will be Dad's night at Upper Sandusky.

Kenton Wildcats, also boasting four straight, will travel to Wapakoneta to meet their traditional rivals. The Wildcats' 32-0 win over Forest last week swelled their season total of points to 85 while Wildcat opponents—Bluffton, St. Marys, Van Wert and Forest—have collected but 19.

Undefeated Bucyrus will entertain Galion. The Bucyrus Redmen scalped Shelby, 18-7, last week and have won over Tiffin Columbian and Willard. They have a tie game with Norwalk. The Galion Tigers have a season record of one win and three losses. The Tigers dropped a 20-13 decision to Norwalk last week.

Marysville, also undefeated, will entertain Marion St. Mary in the battle for Mid-State league leadership.

Richwood, kicked out of the undefeated class by two Marysville conversions last week, plays host to Mt. Gilead. Marysville edged Richwood 14-12 last Friday to stop the Richwood streak at two wins and a tie. Mt. Gilead has a split record, two wins, two losses. They edged Sunbury, 13-12, last week.

Crestline will try to improve their .500 standing when they entertain Tiffin Calvert. Crestline started the season strong with wins over Mt. Gilead and Galion, but was stopped by Bellevue and Upper Sandusky.

Carey Blue Devils will meet North Baltimore at Carey. The Blue Devils won over Vanlue and Mt. Gilead, but lost to Marion St. Mary and Ada.

Cardington goes to Sunbury for their second game since 1910. Cardington started football anew this year with a 20-6 loss to Centerburg on Sept. 26.

Ernie Lombardi has been known to catch a complete game without saying a word.

CENTRAL TEAM BOWS TO MT. GILEAD, 19-14

Central Junior High school couldn't quite overcome a 19-0 halftime lead by Mt. Gilead High school reserves and ended their second game on the short end of a 19-14 score at the Harding stadium yesterday afternoon.

After three sustained Mt. Gilead drives had scored 19 points for the high school boys, Central came back in the second half to dominate the play.

In the fourth quarter, Central fullback Jimmy Russell faked a punt and sped 75 yards for the first Central touchdown. But Knisely's plunge added the extra point. In the closing minutes of the game, Dan Day took off through left tackle on another long run and the final touchdown. Again Knisely's plunge was good.

A McClaren to LaRouche pass accounted for the opening Mt. Gilead tally in the first period, and LaRouche's plunge added their only conversion. McClaren and Meeker added two more tallies for Mr. Gilead, going over in the first and second frames after downfield marches had set up the scoring.

Central meets Edison under the Harding stadium lights in a league game next Monday night.

O.S.U. GRID MACHINE GETTING OVERHAUL

Fesler Juggles Squad To Find Winning Combination.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8—Ohio State's football machine is getting a rather thorough overhauling these days in Coach Wes Fesler's efforts to revive the Bucks' winning ways.

In two days' training for the Southern California contest Saturday, Fesler has come up with two different sets of number one linemen. It was shoddy defense work that got most of the blame for Ohio State's loss to Purdue last Saturday.

Fesler, however, maintains his 5-4-2 system is workable. "It's just that our men didn't carry through with what they were supposed to do," the Buckeye mentor explained.

So, Wes juggled the personnel somewhat and came up yesterday with Howdy Duncan, six foot three and 220-pound bruiser at center, for third string alternate. He re-instated Jack Wilson at left tackle after a demotion Monday, and alternated reserve linemen with their backfield counterparts.

This week's experiments resulted thus far in a first string line with Dick Shannon and Jim Hague at ends, Jack Jennings and Wilson, tackles, Dave Templeton and Ray Diplerro at guards and Duncan at center.

In the backfield department, Panel Savic replaced quarterback Dick Slager, Jimmy Clark was at left half and Alex Verdova, right half. Joe Whisler clung to his fullback berth.

Rod Swinehart and Bob Demmel were on the sidelines because of bruises. Trainer Ernie Biggs, said he expected Dean Sensanbaugher, and Swinehart to be in ship shape for the westerners, but wasn't to sure of Demmel because of a shoulder injury.

In the scrimmage, Fesler brought out some new running plays for use against the Trojans.

Bluege Takes New Job With Washington Club

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators went shopping for a new manager today after moving Ossie Bluege into a newly-created post as supervisor of the club's farm teams.

"I spoke to Griffith so often about this haphazard farm system," Bluege said, "that I guess I talked myself into the job."

The switch to the front office wound up a five year managerial term for the one-time star first baseman, whose 1947 team finished a dismal seventh after a season marked by severe batting slumps and several clubhouse clashes among the players.

Griffith declined to say whether he had somebody in mind for the job, but efforts around Griffith stadium were that the choice lay among Rick Ferrell, veteran catcher and coach, Sammy West, another coach, and Buddy Myer and Joe Kuhel, former Nat infielders.

McKECHNIE QUITS TRIBE

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8—Deacon Bill McKechnie, Cleveland Indians' coach last season, will not be back next year, it was learned today, thus probably eliminating a candidate for Manager Lou Boudreau's job. McKechnie indicated that he preferred to return to outside business interests.

SPORTS LAUGHS

An All-America college player—school to remain anonymous—reported to the Washington Redskins of the National Professional Football League.

A newsman asked the newcomer how he liked playing professional ball after his collegiate years.

The player replied: "Don't mind it a bit. But I sure hate to take that cut in pay."

WOMAN DRIVER WINS

By The Associated Press

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 8—Kinny Wyn, piloted by Joyce Burright, paid $10.60, $5.60 and $4 across the board in winning the seventh race at Aurora Downs last night. The crowd of 3,930 shied from a woman driver in the second night of two weeks of grand circuit racing.

RUTGERS' SEASHORE PRACTICE. Rutgers, which started this whole college football business back in 1869, is back among the eastern football powers this season after a long absence. In this picture, two rugged Rutgers linemen have forsaken the practice field and, with the aid of two co-eds, are working into shape by the New Jersey seashore. The Rutgers-Princeton rivalry, oldest in collegiate football, will be resumed Oct. 11. Rutgers has won only two games in the long series.

Ohio State Takes Defeat Calmly—It's Very Old Story

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8—Ohio State university has been playing football since 1890, and in 57 years of competition has popped up with only two unbeaten-untied seasons—1916 and 1944.

So, despite the fact this Buckeye capital is regarded as the hotbed of midwest football, and the graveyard of coaches, it isn't surprising that the folks have learned to take a tolerant attitude toward the loss of a game here and there.

All of which means that the fans of Columbus, including the ever-voluble downtown coaches around Broad and High streets, aren't up in arms and down in the mouth over last Saturday's Buckeye defeat at the hands of Purdue, 24-20.

* * *

Even the sports writers are calm, cool and collected in the face of the tragedy and see no cause for alarm.

Bob Hooey, Ohio State Journel sports editor, who has been watching Ohio State grid teams since he was tall enough to look over his own shoulder, took this placid view:

"The first defeat came before it was expected, maybe a week in advance. In early September it was a foregone conclusion Ohio would be tripped up three or possibly four times before the current schedule ran its course. Now, it seems, the handwriting on the wall is plain, actually very plain. Such is inevitable.

"The result of the Purdue game, to make it light, was disappointing to Ohio State followers.

"Today, however, all Buckeyedom is proud of its Ohio State team and coaching staff. In the closing seconds, and not until then, the Bucks went down fighting. It is extremely gratifying to all Ohio to realize that the destinies of Ohio State football are in capable hands."

* * *

And Russ Needham, sports chief of the Columbus Dispatch, who has watched Buckeye coaches being built up for the big letdown for two decades, had this to say:

"It seems inevitable that we are stuck with a losing football team this year. Ohio's 24-20 whaling by the Boilermakers makes it look like a very glum deal indeed of coming Saturday afternoons hereabouts.

"Some people have already unfurled the shop-worn 'fire-the-coach' banners, and as the season advances, their number may increase. * * * No one need give them more than passing heed.

"What we're trying to say, of course, is that Fesler is not going to be judged too harshly on this first season. Not on the scores or the number of losses, at least. The material just isn't there."

* * *

Up at Toledo, Sports Editor Jack Senn of the Times observed:

"There are contrasting sentiments in the Detroit and Ann Arbor area, and in Columbus. While Michigan adherents are heralding what may be a glory season for the Wolverines, stunned Ohio State fans are realizing it may be a long, hard row after the Buckeyes' surprise setback by discounted Purdue. And even the most stout-hearted must flinch at the thought of the meeting of the Bucks and Wolves this year, although a lot can happen between now and Nov. 22."

SPEARHEADS MIAMI ATTACK. Paul Dietzel, 197-pound center from Mansfield, is one of the best offensive centers Miami has had in years and undoubtedly will shine more on defense this year than in 1946, when Charles Moos, an exceptionally good defensive man, relieved him on defense. Dietzel was captain of the 1946 team in his first year of Miami competition and now is a senior. His play is characterized by good general football savvy and field leadership.

ANGELS SCHEDULED AT LOCKLAND SUNDAY

Local Team Out To Avenge Last Sunday's Defeat.

Marion Safety Cab Angels go to Lockland Sunday to meet Lockland Legion semi-pros in the Angels fifth grid battle.

The Angels, still smarting over the 7-2 defeat they suffered in the Angel-Indianapolis 7-Up All Star game last Sunday, are screaming for revenge, and it looks as if the boys from southwestern Ohio are the goats.

The Cabbies made a touchdown in the Indianapolis battle but it was called back for a five-yard backfield in motion penalty. They yelled murder at the time and followed up this week with a protest to Inter-State Conference president, Sid Tennant.

While league officials mull over the protest, the Cabbies are gnashing for another victory to add to their string of three, and they figure the Lockland club will do.

Until last Sunday the Angels were undefeated and unscored upon. They dumped Columbus Hilltoppers, 10-0, shaded Worthington, 6-0, and smashed the Mendon Red Jackets, 32-0.

Probable starting Angel lineup at Lockland: ends, Richardson and Gilmore, tackles, Lust and Griffith, guards, Obenour and Lewis, center, Keller, quarterback, Simmons, halfbacks, Ivey and Hodges, and fullback, Ruehl.

MacPhail Leaves Yanks For Farm With Cool Two Million

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—So Larry MacPhail pinks up the $2,000,0[illegible] and goes back to his Maryland farm and the world champion New York Yankees start down a new road under the direction of General Manager George Weiss.

The era of showboat promotion that resulted in new all-time records for baseball attendance at the Yankee stadium in 1946 and 1947 and a new World Series high probably will be forgotten. The turnstiles still will whirl under the impetus of a hustling ball club and night ball, but no more pre-game archery tests.

"You can only promote so far," Dan Topping, the new Yankee president, said last night after announcing that he and Del Webb, MacPhail's former partners, had bought up Larry's one-third share for $2,000,000. The official word from Topping followed by several minutes a telephone call to The Associated Press by MacPhail who gave out the same information.

Remains In Character

So to the very end, MacPhail remained in character, topping his dramatic farewell announcement after the last out of Monday's World Series finale by beating his partners to the punch with the story that he had sold out. He did not divulge future plans.

During the hectic 27-hour period since the final out of the series, MacPhail blackened the eye of a former associate, John McDonald, who was road secretary under him at Brooklyn. That happened in a "victory" celebration at a midtown hotel, climaxed by a number of arguments that Topping said were "better left unsaid."

Topping admitted one of MacPhail's acts during the victory celebration was to "fire" Weiss, who came with the organization in 1932 after operating minor league clubs at New Haven, Conn., and Batimolre, Md. He operated the extensive Yankee farm empire that now includes 25 ball clubs, seven under direct ownership.

Bucky Harris remains as Yankee manager. He has a two-year contract running through 1948.

Started With $200,000

An interesting sidelight was offered by an authoritative source who cannot be identified. He disclosed that MacPhail's original financial share of the $2,900,000 Jan. 25, 1945 deal by which the partners acquired the Yanks was only "about $200,000."

Through Topping and Webb it was possible for MacPhail eventually to attain the status of a one-third stockholder. His salary as president, running through 1950 until ended by yesterday's deal, called for $50,000 per year.

"Webb and I bought up Larry's stock about a week ago," Topping said. "He would have continued as general manager, perhaps in an advisory capacity, until his contract ran out but not as president."

In answer to a question, Topping admitted that he and Webb thought the Yankees "could have been operated more economically."

"Larry is a smart promoter," he added, "but you can only promote so far."

Topping said Commissioner A. B. Chandler had been informed of the change but he insisted Chandler had "nothing to do with it." Some skeptics still thought the Chandler-MacPhail conference in Cincinnati in early May was at least a contributing factor.

MacPhail, now outside of baseball, is free to discuss the matter if he so desires.

Johnny Allen was fined $25 for continuing to wear a shirt with flapping sleeve that annoyed hitters—but he sold the shirt to an enterprising Cleveland merchant for $500.

Writer Is Proud Proprietor Of Prehistoric Dinosaur Bone

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—I am—ahem—the proud proprietor today of a dinosaur bone.

Next month I may get a preserved boll weevil, a gold nugget, a piece of meteor from another world, a plastic eyeglass, a genuine imitation ruby or something else as fascinating as it is useful. I may become a member in good standing of the Month-of-the-Month club. I've been waiting for my $4 a year membership thing. Maybe an atom, with directions for splitting it. I read about the two dozen men who now belong to the backs-of-books monthly in the interesting literature. They started the Month-of-the-Month lodge member join-up idea.

The idea spread until now you don't care how you live or what you eat, you can get a subscription

There's a Cheese-of-the-Month club, numerous Fruit-of-the-Month clubs and four or five Necktie-of-the-Month ditties. In addition is the Gadget-of-the-Month club, which distributes to members such things as patent can openers and atomic-age lighters. The necktie-of-the-Month club is doing an enormous business. The Dress-of-the-Month club which will distribute a different frock sight-unseen to each feminine member, now is being organized.

Talks Things Over

I was talking about these various clubs and events with my old friend and colleague, Dr. Frank Thone of Science Service, the non-profit news syndicate, which digs up and distributes news about science. He said that so many editors of newspapers asked for samples of the things the syndicate wrote about that Watson Davis, editor-in-chief, started the Things of Science club. Each month the subscribers get a package of things.

Dr. Thone said the problem was to hold down the membership, now numbering 8,500, because genuine dinosaur bones, for instance, aren't so easy to come by, wholesale.

"We heard," he said, "that the American Museum of National History in New York had a load of spare parts from dinosaurs it has been assembling for its displays. So we made a deal and it wasn't long before there arrived here at our office by express 300 pounds of assorted dinosaur bones."

Not Often Available

The trouble with a dinosaur bone, Dr. Thone said, is that it's likely to be 10 feet long and as big around as an oak. Too large for delivery by U. S. mail.

"So I got a couple of husky boys from our mail room and gave 'em sledge hammers," Dr. Thone said. "They spent two days cracking dinosaur bones for the subscribers." Each new member, of course, gets a gift thing. I settled for a prehistoric bone, because the club was fresh out of whey candy.

"I guess that was the most popular thing we ever sent out," Dr. Thone said. "Whey is the problem child of the milk business. When they've got the cream, butter, and imitation pearl buttons out of a batch of milk, the whey is left. A sourish fluid good for nothing, much. But the government scientists kept on trying and they boiled it down to get the sugar out and first thing you know they came up with whey candy. So we distributed that one month. Had so much repeat business there isn't a bon-bon left in the shop."

He asked, changing the subject, had I ever seen a boll weevil. I said I hadn't.

"You will," promised the Thing-of-the-Month specialist. "Preserved in a bottle of alcohol."

COWBOY ACTOR DIES IN FIGHT OVER CARDS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—A. J. Greening, 28, a cowboy performer of a rodeo troupe headed by film star Roy Rogers, was stabbed to death and two other cowboy players were slashed in a fight during a card game in a west side hotel early today.

There were nine members of the show, all cowboys, in the room when the fight started, Police Detectives Tom McGuire and James Hearty said. The man who wielded the knife escaped. The detectives said the men identified him as Okanogan Paul, 26, an Indian of Browning, Mont.

J. D. McKenna, 25, of Sheridan, Wyo., who was cut in the abdomen, was in serious condition at the Cook County hospital. Bill Lawrence, 19, of Boulder, Colo., was cut on the right forearm.

The police detectives said that Greening, whose home was in Mooringsport, La., and Paul argued over the amount of money in a card game. Greening was stabbed in the chest near the heart and McKenna and Lawrence were slashed when they attempted to grab him.

Police said that Rogers, who opens his rodeo at the Chicago stadium tomorrow for an engagement through Oct. 26, told them he did not know personally any of the men involved in the stabbing.

Pair To Face Charges Of Murdering Ohioan

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 7—A 35-year-old paroled Negro slayer and his 17-year-old girl companion were back here today to face murder charges in the fatal beating of Mrs. Edna Adkins, 33, of neighboring Franklin.

Butler County Sheriff Charles B. Walke returned Clifford Gayles and Ada Davidson, both of Xenia, from New Orleans where they had been captured by FBI agents.

Mrs. Adkins, who with her 10-year-old son, Paul, was beaten during a wave of assaults across southwestern Ohio last Labor day weekend, died several weeks ago. The boy has recovered.

Gayles also faces a murder indictment in Greene county for allegedly fatally wounding Mrs. Ollie Guy, 22, sister of his companion on the flight south.

U.S. ENERGY NEEDS CALLED VAST, VARIED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8—The job of supplying America's long-range energy requirements "is too vast and complicated to be solved by any one group or combination of companies in coal, oil, or gas," a Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. official told the American Gas association today.

Joseph Pursglove Jr., vice president in charge of research for the Pittsburgh firm, maintained the coal, gas and oil industries, as major sources and suppliers of energy, should begin to view "jointly" the country's rapidly growing "need for energy in all its forms."

Addressing a general session on the losing day of the AGA's 29th annual meeting, Pursglove discussed plans announced last March by Pittsburgh Consolidation and Standard Oil Development Co. for construction of a huge, multi-million dollar plant near Pittsburgh to "explore the possibilities" of making gas and gasoline out of coal on a vast scale.

Delivering gas of high British thermal unit content from the projected Pittsburgh plant at "prices even close to those which now obtain for natural gas from the southwest" does not appear likely "at this stage of our development program," Pursglove reported.

1946 Population Growth Called History's Greatest

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — The census bureau reported yesterday that population growth in 1946 exceeded that of any year in history.

An increase of 3,279,000 last year boosted the total population of the U. S., including armed forces overseas, to 142,573,000 on last Jan. 1, the bureau said.

Population growth since the last census of April 1, 1940 was described as "unusually great"—11,000,000 or 8.4 per cent for the six and three-fourths years.

This compared with an increase of less than 9,000,000 or 7.2 per cent for the 10 full years preceding April 1, 1940.

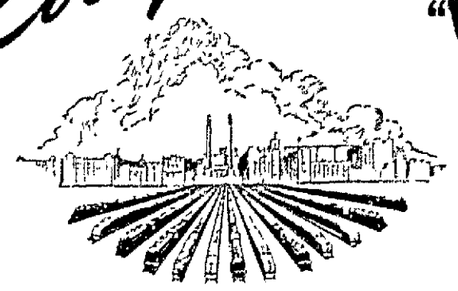
Everybody is asking "Why can't I get more Budweiser?"



IT'S COMING!

Time and again we have enlarged the world's largest brewery. The present expansion program is the largest ever. But we can't ship you these additional trainloads of Budweiser without expanding our present network of railroad trackage. Supplying your demand for Budweiser has required us to build private railroad yards bigger than the terminal facilities of many major cities.

Although we are producing and shipping more Budweiser than ever before, it is scarce because more people are demanding it than ever before. They demand it because every drop of Budweiser contains the quality that over the years has made it the most popular beer in history.

Meanwhile, we are distributing Budweiser equitably to thousands of dealers throughout America. It seems that people no longer ask for beer... they ask for Budweiser.

CONG. SMITH TALKS AT ROTARY MEETING

Calls Socialized Medicine Plan Part of General Trend.

Speaking on the subject, "Socialized Medicine," in the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding, Tuesday, Congressman Frederick C. Smith declared the proposal to be merely one phase of a general trend toward socialism in this country.

"It will not be sufficient just to defeat the bills now pending in congress which would place socialized medicine in effect," he said. "The entire socialistic movement must be checked."

Explaining the system which would be effective should the medical program ever be adopted, he said it would destroy the relationship between physician and patient which is "the soul of the practice of medicine." Patients he declared, would become mere chattels in the hands of Washington bureaucrats.

Cong. Smith outlined the most commonly proposed socialized medicine plan. Under its provisions the country would be divided into health areas with physicians paid on a fee or salary basis or possibly a combination of both, the choice being left to a vote of the physicians in each area.

Relating that he studied medicine in Germany and Austria, where government controlled practice of medicine was in effect, Cong. Smith said he found there unmistakable evidence of how vastly superior the American free enterprise plan is to the socialized system. He presented figures to show that the percentage of death toll from diptheria in countries where medical practice is under government control is much larger than in the United States and other countries where private practice of medicine functions without government or socialistis interference.

Cong. Smith was presented to his audience by Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., Rotary program chairman for October.

Guests of the club in addition to Cong. Smith were: Dr. Frederick Merchant and Dr. J. S. Greetham of Marion, E. A. Clark of Columbus, and C. B. King of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of Marion and a past president of the Marion Rotary Club.

Lola Barnett was student reporter from the Harding High school journalism classes.

Foremen To Hear Noted Cartoonist

Dick Calkins, creator of the adventure strip "Buck Rogers," will lecture at the Foremen's club ladies' night meeting at the Masonic Temple Thursday night.

Calkins, who created the popular strip 17 years ago, will speak on "Five Centuries Ahead with Buck Rogers." His lecture, Mr. Calkins insists, is not to be taken seriously, but is aimed at audience amusement. He will accompany his talk with cartoons in color, both on the subject of Buck Rogers and on newspaper cartooning in general.

An Army pursuit pilot in World War I, Calkins has been a newspaper cartoonist 30 years. After leaving the Chicago Art Institute, he drew cartoons for the Detroit Free Press and later for the Chicago Examiner. For the past 20 years he has been associated with the National Newspaper Syndicate of Chicago.

His comic strip, "Buck Rogers," appears in more than 300 newspapers both here and abroad.

The meeting is to start at 6:30 p. m.

COL. TAYLOR SPEAKS TO RESERVE OFFICERS

Former Marion Man Now Stationed at Columbus.

Lt. Col. Edward M. Taylor who is in charge of the Columbus district of the Organized Reserve Corps, and several other officers from Fort Hayes were guests at the monthly meeting of the Marion Area Chapter, Reserve Officers association, Tuesday night at Hotel Harding. Col. Hubert L. Taylor presided for the meeting which was preceded by a dinner at 7 o'clock in the Marion club.

Col. Taylor, who is a former Marion resident, was the speaker for the evening and informal talks on current military affairs and the activities of the Reserve Officers association were given by several of the guests. He was accompanied here by Col. Charles Smith, president of the department of Ohio, Reserve Officers association, and Col. Speckman, commanding officer of the First Battalion, 324th Field Artillery. Guests from Marion included Major J. W. Llewellyn, Chief William E. Marks and Capt. Carl F. Ebert.

Col. Taylor discussed the organization of reserve units and outlined tentative plans for establishment of a contact camp in the Marion area some time this year. Col. Smith discussed Reserve officers affairs from the viewpoint of the association and emphasized membership, contacts on universal military training and future requirements of U. S. Army Reserve officers.

One of the topics given special consideration was Battery C of the 324th Field Artillery, which is the only Class B unit in the Marion area. Ways and means also were discussed on securing field artillery officers and enlisted reservists to bring it up to required strength.

During a short business meeting arrangements were made for a dance to be held by the local association in November and the following committee was named to make the arrangements: Major Louis Bremkamp, Capt. John Turner and Capt. Robert Wolbert. Major H. J. Maish and First Lt. Robert L. Reid were named a committee to work with other organizations in planning an Armistice day observance.

It was announced that the chapter would sponsor a picture dealing with the return of the war dead from overseas some time this month. Capt. Robert Truka was appointed to arrange details for the date and place.

Announcement was made of a lecture, the first of a series, to be given in Columbus Oct. 16. All veterans, reserve officers, national guard officers and national guardsmen and their ladies are invited to attend.

Artists Score Hit in Concert

Edison School Program Sponsored by Business and Professional Women.

By ELAINE BALLINGER

Enthusiastic applause greeted artists of the Musical Portraits group at presentation in Edison Junior High school Tuesday night of the first program of the fall concert series sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club here. An audience of approximately 300 showed approval of the work of the four young musicians and of the dancer by outbreaks of clapping and by three curtain calls at close of the performance.

Musical portraits was presented in five groups of "miniatures," prolog and epilog, each episode a complete miniature operetta with vocal and instrumental music, with dancing as a background. Specialty numbers were by each of the singers, Eleanor Warner, soprano, Jack Hurley, tenor, Boris Zlatich, violinist, Janet Lowenstein, dancer, and Stephanie Novicki, pianist. Each of the young people has won honors in his or her particular field of art.

Approximately 30 numbers were used in telling the stories of the operettas, music of Jerome Kern, Victor Herbert, Emmerich Kalman, Sigmund Romberg and classical composers. Favorite melodies were played and sung from "Showboat", "Student Prince," "Connecticut Yankee," "Cat and the Fiddle," "No No Nanette," "Naughty Marietta," "Music in the Air," "Sweethearts," "New Moon," "Eilene," "Up in Central Park," "Chocolate Soldier," "Blossomtime," and "Vagabond King." An operalog was composed of music of "Cavaleria Rusticana," "Thais," "LaGioconda," "LaTraviata," and "LaBoheme."

The miniatures were called "Studio Rehearsal," "Springtime in Markova," "Reunion in Zuravia," Swan Song," (operalog) and "Cafe Samovar." Costumes which were elaborate and colorful blended with the music in creating atmosphere for the scenes, from casual studio attire, brilliant-hued gypsy garb, and formal evening wear.

Particularly well received by the audience were solos by the 17-year-old violinist, Klatich, who, at 12 years of age was playing with the University of Chicago Symphony orchestra; the "Flight of the Bumblebee" dance in striking costume by Miss Lowenstein, "Italian Street Song," by Miss Warner and the group, the soprano and tenor duet and the pianists solo number. The Portraits group was scheduled to appear at Mt. Gilead this afternoon.

Personal sketches of the artists were presented by Mrs. Flora Gruber, a member of the Business and Professional Women's club. The club has planned for a series of four concerts, of which last night's presentation was first, with the next to be given Oct. 21 at the Edison school auditorium. At that time Piero Perotic, baritone will sing. Proceeds of the concerts will go for charitable projects on the club's program for the year.

Play Is Chosen For Junior Class

A clever comedy, "Shiny Nose," written by Christopher Sergil, has been selected as this year's junior class play which is scheduled to be presented Nov. 20-21 at Central Junior High school.

Marion O. Chase, speech instructor at Harding and a new member of the Harding faculty this year, will be the director. Tryouts are being held this week and the cast is expected to be announced the last of the week.

The play deals with Janey, a young college student, who is primping for the most important date of her whole life. Her family has decided that she's too young to "go steady," and that this is to be her last date with the handsome George Allen. Janey drags her sister into helping her plan a last impression on George, but meanwhile, Helen, the campus queen, tricks George into going to the dance with her. Then Janey gets an ex-boy friend of Helen and in a hilarious scene tries to make George jealous, but this backfires with a bang.

FIRE PREVENTION THEME OF MEETING

Lions Take Part in Observance of Event.

Fire prevention was the theme for the luncheon-meeting of the Lions club held Monday noon at Hotel Harding. As an added reminder that this is Fire Prevention Week, all matches were collected as the 90 members and visitors entered the door.

Program was presented by Earl Andrews, Virgil Johnson, John Gillis and W. P. Applegett. Each talked briefly on fire prevention in various fields. Mr. Andrews, chairman, chose "Community" for his topic. He stated that children's deaths from fires is greater than from any disease. He urged citizens to become better acquainted with the fire department and the members and their duties and to make an investigation of the local building code.

Mr. Johnson talked on the fire prevention methods in the home and reminded all that the heating systems in homes should be checked regularly. He discussed the methods of turning in an afarm, both by telephone and by an alarm box, commenting on the fact that a great number are ignorant of the proper method.

In talking of the merchants, Mr. Gillis said that they run the greatest risk in failing to use preventive measures since a fire in a business establishment results in loss of income and customers and creates unemployment.

Mr. Applegett cautioned all to check electrical equipment and wiring and to replace any frayed cords or defective wiring immediately, thus lowering the possibility of fire.

An impromptu essay contest with all members writing a brief item on fire prevention was held. Time limit was five minutes and the $5 prize was won by Jack Danner.

The following reports were given, attendance, Ben Wiant; safety committee, Mr. Applegett; community chest fund, John Watters. Members of the safety committee who assisted Mr. Applegett in distributing the safety posters included L. H. Larson, Harry Seiter, Roy Shipton and James Barry.

Announcement was made of the Lions club meeting to be held in Columbus Nov. 2 when Fred Smith of Ventura, Calif., international president, will be guest speaker. William Reichenstein, chairman of the visitation committee, urged Marion members to attend if possible.

Bird-McGinnis Post To Back Scout Troop

Boys formerly associated with Troop No. 5, Boy Scouts, and others interested in taking up Scouting are asked to be present at a meeting to be held tonight at the Legion Dugout. At this time Troop No. 5, Boy Scouts, will be reactivated under the sponsorship of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162.

John Rinnert, who will be the Scoutmaster for the troop will be present at the meeting, at which time plans for future activities will be discussed. Francis Layton is the assistant Scoutmaster and representing the post is W. P. Wanner.

Sponsoring the Boy Scout troop is one of the projects of the post in keeping with the Legion program of Americanization. Plans for reactivation of the troop were made at a meeting of the troop committee last night at the Dugout.

Two Boys Ordered To Research Bureau

Two 14-year-old boys, implicated in the theft of three cars, recently, were ordered sent to the bureau of juvenile research at Columbus following a hearing in the court of Juvenile Judge Edward Ruzzo today. Four other youths, aged 12 to 14, who also were taken into custody by city patrolmen in connection with the theft of the cars, were placed on probation to their parents and Rev. James L. Robinson of the Pentecostal assembly.

The boys have been held at the juvenile detention home pending hearings in juvenile court. The two 14-year-old youths admitted taking the cars and exhonorated their companions, who told Judge Ruzzo they were not aware the cars were stolen when they went for a ride in them. The cars were stolen and later abandoned, Sept. 28 and 29, according to court records.

The quartet placed on probation were ordered by Judge Ruzzo to be at their homes every night minutes after being dismissed from school, to remain at home after school and not to leave the premises unless accompanied by their parents. Also they are to report to Rev. Robinson at Sunday school each Sunday.

The two boys who will go to the Research bureau were returned to the detention home.

Surgical Clamp Taken From Woman's Body

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8—A 58-year-old woman was convalescing today after an operation for removal of a six-inch surgical instrument left in her abdominal cavity 12 years ago.

The patient, Mrs. J. E. Price, said the surgeon who performed the earlier operation was dead, but asked her home city not be given to avoid embarrassing his relatives.

Encrusted with body salts, the scissor-like hemostat was discovered by X-rays after she complained of recurring intestinal irritation.

RAILS LEAD UPSWING ON STOCK EXCHANGE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 — Rails pushed forward in the stock market today and a number of industrials followed suit.

Steel, motors and oils shared in the improvement although there were numerous dissenters elsewhere. Dealings were at a fairly active pace in the opening minutes, then quieted somewhat. Near mid-day gains of fractions to a point or so were in the majority.

Climbing into higher ground were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.) U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Western Union, U. S. Gypsum and Union Carbide.

Laggards included American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, Bethlehem and Johns-Manville.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"JUST the two of you?" Mary asked, looking around the room.

"Just the two of us, Brat," Dicky told her. "Aunt Katharine said she had things to do in her own apartment, and to call her when you needed her."

Brimming with Bliss

"She has the world's supply of tact cornered, I sometimes think," Mary said. "I'm glad there's just you two. Noel and I are so brimming over with bliss that we don't like to have anybody but our nearest and dearest see us slopping over.

"Not that we're saying very much or doing much explaining," Mary rattled on, and I knew instinctively that later on, when she and I were alone, I would get the "lowdown" on the joyous pact which she and her husband evidently had made.

"But we do want you to know that the snail's on the thorn, God's in His Heaven, and all the rest of it. All's certainly well with our little corner of the world. Couldn't be better, could it, Noel, darling?"

Pulled Her Closer

Noel pulled her closer to him—and his voice was also joyous, though a bit husky.

"If it were any better, I don't think I could stand it," he said extravagantly. "But, sweetheart," he bent solicitously to Mary, "I mustn't keep you up any later."

"I suppose I'm still subject to rules," Mary said, with a little moue at me. "But they've promised me I'm going to be my own woman again pretty soon."

She turned in the clasp of Noel's arm, and faced me more directly.

Any Time Limit?

"How about it, Auntie Madge?" she asked. "You said something awhile ago about my going back to our own apartment after awhile. Is there any time limit on that?"

"That is up to Aunt Katharine and Dr. Twitchell," I said. "But I think I am safe in telling you that the end of four days, perhaps before, should see you back in your own apartment, and, as you express it, your own woman again. It will all depend on your physical condition."

"And my mental and moral?" she quipped.

"I don't think your physician, your nurse, or your relatives are worrying about either of those," I told her, smiling. "And, so far, you appear to be doing very well physically. So you may be able to shade those four days."

"If Ilah will only be merciful!" she breathed.

Then she drew Noel to the door, kissed him, murmured "Till tomorrow, darling!" and sent him away.

Dicky Steps In

Dicky, who had been on his feet since she came into the room, went up to her, took her into his arms.

"Darling Brat," he said. "You don't need me just now any more than—fill in whatever simile you prefer. But this stuff is woman business. Any man except your husband—or your doctor is—extraneous.

"I'm not sure I know what it means or how to spell or pronounce it," Dicky said with a wry grin. "But I guess you grasp what I mean. At any rate, I'm scramming out of here, and you girls can let down your back hair."

"And Auntie Madge has my permission to pass on to you any pearls of thought I give her," Mary told him. "But I don't mind telling you I would like to see my second mother alone."

Beautiful Smile

Her smile at me was something beautiful, but when we were left alone together, she did not speak for almost a minute.

"Were you ever so happy it made you afraid?" she asked at last.

"Many times," I assured her. "But do you want to tell me the reason for your present fear?"

"Of course I do," she said. "It's only that in what they used to call 'the twinkling of an eye,' everything has been changed over to a pattern of life I'm loving, and I'm afraid it's too good to last."

"Old Doc Twitchell certainly must have handed Noel the works," she went on. "The poor boy is agreeing slavishly with every proposition he made. Our plan for parenthood is postponed, I am to go on with the play—it seems it's the only thing calculated to save my reason—and when I do have a baby, I'm to make it a twin to my carecah! What do you think of that?"

When she was six days old Mary became the Queen of Scotland.
